Wind Wrecks Havoc in All Southern California Past Three Days

Our City comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

Adequate Sewer System Absolutely Necessary to Continued Growth

ON JANUARY 8th the voters of Glendale go to the polls to decide the future of their city, for this is the day which has been named for voting on the bonds which are necessary before a sewer can be constructed. A two-thirds affirmative vote must be cast and this, if secured, will mean an added incentive for a continued growth. The possibilities of a negative vote are too disastrous to think of.

REGARDLESS of how the individual is now thinking on the proposition, all must realize the impossibility of Glendale continuing much longer under the present sewage disposal system. Cesspools have served us fairly well in the past but their capacity limit has been reached. The soil cannot absorb any more of their liquid overflow. That this is true has been clearly demonstrated. To those who have any doubt as to the truth of this assertion we would suggest an inspection of the condition existing right now, on Colorado street near Orange, where the sewage is overflowing into the street.

THIS condition has been caused by a filling up of the cesspools built to take care of the flow from the sewer now in use in the business section, the soil being too saturated to receive any more. We have hesitated on telling of this condition because of the effect it would have on the outsiders. The Glendale citizens have heard the story so often that they have become used to it and fail to realize the danger existing.

AS far as we can learn, the opposition, such as there is, comes from the group that has been advocating the annexation of Glendale to Los Angeles.

These persons have been claiming that by annexing we can secure the sewer at a much lower cost to the taxpayer.

THIS is not true, and anyone investigating for himself will find that by annexing we would have the Los Angeles debt contracted during the past years saddled on us, and in addition would pay a goodly share of the construction cost of the sewer when we got it, which would probably be too late to save the present situation.

IF present growth is to continue, sewers must be in operation within two years, and if Los Angeles had the entire say, five years would be as early a date as we could look forward to with any confidence. There is territory in the big city's limits right now still unserved and the residents have a right to consideration ahead of territory which might be annexed to the city at some future day.

IF the fight is not for or against the sewer but one between those for and those against annexation, let's come out in the open and have the true facts.

We are not in favor of annexation, even if by annexing we could get a sewer for nothing, and we have no hesitation in saying this. Annexation, however, is not the issue. A sewer service is the problem and it must be solved at once.

WE are confident that after the votes are counted we will find few against the bonds, but those against should not try to secure votes by making a claim that we can save taxes by annexation, for it can't be done either with or without the sewer.

VICTOR CROWN FOR BEACH GRIDDERS

Jackrabbits Win Game in First Six Minutes, Then Are Helpless

By FRANCIS W. READ

Before a crowd of 15,000 persons, the largest that has ever witnessed a High school football game in the southwest, the Glendale High school Dynamiters went down to defeat at the hands of the Long Beach Jackrabbits at the Los Angeles Coliseum Saturday afternoon. By defeating Glendale, the Long Beach eleven won the Southern California championship and won the right to meet Bakersfield this Saturday in the semi-finals for the state title.

Although defeated, the Glendale footballers were by no means outclassed by the seasiders. After they had recovered from the disastrous effects of the first six minutes of play, in which Long Beach made two touchdowns, the Dynamiters ran circles around the Jackrabbits and outplayed them for the rest of the game. Never once in the remainder of the game did Long Beach threaten Glendale's goal line. One of the two touchdowns was converted. The other two points came when Howard Elliot was nailed for a safety behind his own goal line.

In the first few minutes of the game it looked like the seasiders were going to wipe up the earth with Glendale. A freak gust of wind gave Long Beach the ball on the Glendale 30-yard line after one of Elliot's punts. Hill, Jones and Drury carried the ball straight down the field for a touchdown. Hilll made the score but Evans

HOUSE IN GREEN VERDUGO HILLS WAS DEDICATED

"I wanted to get the friendly voices of my neighbors into these walls before I moved in," said John McGroarty in answer to the demand for a speech made by the members of the Congregation of the Faithful who attended the housewarming Saturday at the poet's cottage in the green Verdugo hills, five miles northwest of Glendale. That was all he said. And then the noted author and orator seemed suddenly deprived of the power of speech although his moist eyes spoke eloquently.

More than 300 friends and admirers from various parts of the southland attended the party at the palatial rock-built home, constructed in place of the little cottage which was burned last Christmas night. And, sad to say, this new home went up in flames 12 hours after the departure of the last housewarming guest.

All the members of the Millionaire club of Contentment were present—including Socrates, the Man Who Plays the Flute, the Newspaper Addict, the Old Postmaster and the little Lady Who Lives in the Stone House in the Hollow. And they danced the stately minuet together after which a delightful musical program was furnished by Sammy Dickenson, Mrs. Mary Ena, Wilber Herwig and other talented members of the Mission Play.

BURBANK RESIDENT IS BADLY HURT BY AUTO

Mr. H. Isbell of 366 Olive avenue, Burbank, was knocked down by an automobile late Saturday afternoon and is in a serious condition. Mr. Isbell was going after some groceries and was crossing Third street on Olive avenue and stepped in back of one car and in the front of another car owned and driven by Mr. Price of Burbank. He was knocked unconscious and received a skull fracture and internal injuries. He was rushed to the Burbank hospital, where he lies in a serious condition.

LANDMARK BURNED IN NEIGHBOR CITY

[By Associated Press]

PASADENA, Dec. 10.—Fire, fanned by the gale completely destroyed the Bandini home, a historcial landmark on San Pasqual avenue, and did several thousand dollars damage to buildings at 98 South Euclid avenue, close to the main business section of the city. The home of Dr. E. P. Clapp, 300 Alvarado drive, was destroyed Saturday night and for a time yesterday a grass fire threatened the Raymond hotel.

IT'S BONNIE JEANNE WHO TELLS YOU WHERE TO BUY GIFTS

Everybody is thinking of Christmas.

What a wonderful time it promises to be. There seems to be more joy and good will in the air this year than ever before. Everyone seems to be happy.

A great deal of this happiness doubtless comes from the thought that this year the people of Glendale will be able to give more good things than for years. Prosperity has been general and for this reason more things will be given.

This giving spirit will doubtless result in generous buying. To buy a person must make a selection. As a rule a selection comes from a tedious round of the stores—the running of the commercial gauntlet. The buyer must go from store to store in order to make the proper purchases.

Right here is where Bonnie Jeanne, that little bustling miss of the Daily Press, comes in. Bonnie makes a round of the stores daily. She knows where everything is to be found and how much the various things cost. On Tuesday and Friday of each week Bonnie's page appears. It has a whole "crowd" of shopping selections, all of which will save time and money for the busy shopper.

Look for Bonnie's page. It will prove a revelation to you.

MRS. BULLIS LIVED IN GLENDALE FOR 18 YEARS

Sadness is today filling the hearts of the many friends of Mrs. Louise M. Bullis, 311 Roads End, wife of J. Allen Bullis, who passed away at her home at 12 o'clock Saturday night of ptomaine poisoning. Mrs. Bullis had been ill only five days prior to her death.

On Monday evening of last week Mrs. Bullis, in company with Mr. Bullis and friends, took dinner in Los Angeles. On the way home she became ill. After reaching her home a local physician was called and throughout the week every effort was made to save her life.

Mrs. Mullis was born in LaPort, Iowa, on June 12, 1880. She was brought to California when she was four years of age, when her parents settled in Pomona. Eighteen years ago she came to Glendale and has lived here ever since.

The diceased is survived by her husband; Mrs. Dorothy Talbot, a daughter, who lives here; Donald Patterson, a son, also living in Glendale; C. N. Peck, a father who lives in Balboa; three brothers, Edward G. Peck of Los Angeles, Charles R. Peck and Brae and C. W. Peck of Maricopa.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the chapel at Grand View, Rev. Calderwood of the Glendale Congregational church, officiating.

MEXICO REVOLUTION SEEMS TO GAIN HEADWAY

VERA CRUZ, Dec. 10.—Insurgent troops have left Vera Cruz under orders for an advance toward Mexico City. At various points along the Inter-oceanic railway they will be joined by other contingents and the united forces will then proceed toward the capital, advancing in two directions. It is estimated that about ten thousand troops are available for this movement.

General Berlanga and Colonel Mayer, Obregon officers who were reported to have been executed after the capture of Jalapa by the insurgents, were spared. Colonel Mayer was one of 200 prisoners taken in the fight who were brought here last night.

The steamer Platanero Alegria is carrying to New Orleans Teodora Tresieres and Enrique Soldenar, who are to go to New York as confidential agents of the provisional government.

A detachment of Obregon troops was reported defeated in a skrimish in Nayarit territory. Generals Ortega and Maya, loyalists, were killed.

There are persistent rumors that Vera Cruz has been captured.

BIG WIND STORM IN GLENDALE DOES MUCH DAMAGE

Nineteen twenty-three will go down in the history of Southern California as the year of the big wind!

The north wind, tempestuous monarch, this week end paid his respects to Glendale. In gusts which threatened to blow the sky off, he wrecked his rage upon the hitherto peaceful San Fernando valley. Scores of stalwart trees were uprooted, telephone poles were overturned, plate glass windows were broken, awnings were torn to shreds, screen doors were wrenched from their hinges, high board fences were blown over, alley cats were given a bad scare, signs were tumbled down, fruit was blown from the citrus trees, telephone service was interrupted, highways were blocked and streets were littered with limbs of trees, rubbish, cans and much other debris in Glendale.

The police department was kept on the jump.. Desk sergeants suffered from writer's cramp listing the antics of the overgrown zephyr, while patrolmen were kept busy dodging falling trees and telephone poles. Even the air was blown out of the spare tire on the police Dodge.

A forest fire was narrowly averted early yesterday morning in Eagle Rock canyon. About 65 acres of brush were burned over near the power plant of the Southern California Edison company. Twice within 24 hours the blaze burst forth. The danger was so imminent after midnight that church bells were tolled to warn residents. Two hundred and fifty fire fighters extinguished the flames. Just after midnight Saturday a menacing fire occurred near the Annandale country club.

With the exception of one run about 8:30 Saturday night the Glendale fire department spent a quiet week end. The home of George Malvin at 432 Ivy street caught fire from a defective flue. About $800 worth of damage was done to its roof.

DOUBLE GARAGE PLAYS LEAP FROG; LANDS IN NEXT LOT

Dick Chambers, superintendent of the Glendale Daily Press job printing department, received a very valuable present Sunday afternoon. He was standing in his back yard, just outside the house, on Milford street, when a terrific gust of wind came tearing down Concord street, clipping off the pillars supporting the porches of three new houses. The wind next hit and lifted up the double garage in the back yard of his neighbor, carrying it over a chicken house. Mr. Chamber's own garage and then depositing it one the west side of Mr. Chambers' lot, tearing down his fence as it settled. It was a shapeless mass when it landed, and looked like it had enough lumber in it for three garages.

ARRESTED CHARGED WITH INTOXICATION

Ben Johnson of 454 North Bonnie Brae avenue, Los Angeles, about 1:45 yesterday afternoon was arrested on a charge of intoxication. Accompanied by Mrs. Sarah Blore and her son, Edgar Blore, both of 454 North Bonnie Brae avenue, he was sitting in his machine on Verdugo road near Glendale avenue, in Glendale, when the arrest was made by Officer L. Jones. A pint bottle was confiscated.

BOBBY ALLEN BITTEN BY STRANGE COLLIE

"Bobby" Allen, small son of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Allen of 220 South Jackson street, Glendale, Saturday afternoon was bitten by a collie. The attack occurred near the corner of Glendale avenue and Colorado street.

THOUSAND VOICES WILL SING CAROLS CHRISTMAS EVE

Through the cooperation of the muicipal government of Philadelphia 1,000 persons will gather in a huge bandstand in city hall plaza of the City of Brotherly Love at 10:30 o'clock Christmas Eve to sing carols to the accompaniment of a band. With the first note a searchlight on top of city hall tower will flash a salutation to the singers and convey to the people in city and suburbs the information that the joyous singing of carols has begun.

This, according to the Philadelphia Music league, under whose auspices the event will be held, will be the big feature of this year's caroling. The bandstand will be erected and the band furnished by the city.

Outdoor caroling by small groups before churches, hospitals and homes will not be neglected, however. Plans already have been completed for caroling choirs to visit all the hospitals where there are patients whom the singing will benefit materially and physically.

Letters have gone out from the executive offices of the Music league to 2000 ministers and choir masters seeking the cooperation of the regular or vounteer choirs, and 40,000 song sheets have been printed for free distribution.

Many of the carolers, as heretofore, will be clad in black and red hooded capes and they will carry lanterns of unique design.

Arrangements have been made for broadcasting the carols for the benefit of the shut-ins in towns and cities and farm houses far and near who have no singing of their own.

J. Hampton Moore, mayor of Philadelphia, is honorary president of the Philadelphia Music league; Florence J. Heppe, president, and Mrs. Frederick W. Abbott, director. Executive offices of the league are at 1823 Walnut street.

Hundreds of other communities in all parts of the country are preparing for the inauguration or repitition this Christmas of the delightful old caroling custom, according to C. M. Tremaine, director of the National Bureau for the Advancement of Music. For instance, Firley Baum, vice president of the Georgie Children's Home society of Atlanta, informs him that it is expected that from 75 to 100 towns in Georgia will take up the caroling custom this year.

Information on how to inaugurate Christmas caroling on a large or small scale may be obtained without cost from the National Bureau for the advancement of Music, 105 West Fortieth street, New York City.

WIND STORMS OF OTHER DAYS WERE QUITE SEVERE, TOO

The wind storm which began at 8:30 Friday night and soon assumed dangerous velocity, is the worst that this section has experienced since November, 1911. At that time a gale which reached 70 miles an hour at times, it was claimed, and lasted three days and nights, uprooted many trees and blew down some small houses and sheds. About 30 years ago an even worse windstorm hit the San Fernando valley and some large buildings were completely wrecked. One of them, a new story and a half structure at what is now the corner of Lexington drive and Verdugo road, Glendale, rather flimsily built, blew to pieces and the wife of the owner, a Mrs. Brown, was burned to death in the fire that caught in the ruins.

POPULATION CENTER NOW NEAR FRESNO

[By Associated Press]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The approximate location of the population center of California is 36.2 miles southwest of Fresno, Fresno county, according to figures made public today by the federal census bureau. The movement of the center from 1910 to 1920 was 3.7 miles in a direct line from point to point, while the direction of the movement was 27.4 miles southward and 19 miles eastward.

SHOPPING DAYS GO SWIFTLY BY IS WARNING GIVEN

"Only 12 more shopping days before Christmas."

That's what the "Shop Early" section of the Daily Press says. The first page is printed in three colors on the big three-decker press.

The introduction of this section goes on:

"Just how merry will your Christmas be this year? It depends a great deal on how you plan your holiday buying. Some people wait until the last furious days before Christmas, then rush pell mell through their shopping."

Sounds just like old times, doesn't it?

A few years ago it was a question of waiting until the last minute before doing the Christmas shopping—then it's a question of "hold your hat."

The Daily Press' "Shop Early" section has a mission—that is to remind the people of this section that Christmas shopping days are limited—only a dozen left. In this section will be found live holiday gift suggestions—ideas for the suitable Christmas remembrance for husband or wife, father or mother, son or daughter, or friend.

You will profit by reading this section daily. It will be continued until Christmas. Let it be your reminder and guide. If you do you cannot "go wrong."

GIRLISH ENTHUSIASM FEATURE OF BIG SCOUT RALLY

Girlish enthusiasm was the feature Saturday night in the Glendale high school auditorium at the Girl Scout rally.

About eighty girls were present. Each was attired in the Scout uniform—khaki skirt and middy Each troop was accompanied by its stand of colors. The program consisted of stunts by each of the troops. A solo dance was interpreted by Mildred Millcrest of La Crescenta. Patriotic songs, accompanied by Miss Gladys Sharpe of 109 West Lomita avenue, and scout cheers enlivened the occasion.

Mrs. F. A. Beach of 327 Riverdale drive, commissioner of the newly organized Girl Scout council, presided. She extended an invitation to all girls of the proper age to join.

Refreshments consisted of wafers and punch.

WILL BE ARRAIGNED TOMORROW NOON

Sam Muskino of 802 East Lomita avenue, Glendale, tomorrow morning will be arraigned before Judge F. H. Lowe on charges of reckless driving and assault. He was arrested Saturday afternoon by Capt. W. A. Loving and Lieut. W. J. Royle of the police department after his whereabouts had been learned by Desk Sergeant H. A. Stanford. He was released upon $100 bail.

L. E. Kellogg of 2010 Glenwood road is the complainant. He asserts that Mr. Muskino, who was driving a truck south on San Fernando road near Doran street about 11 o'clock Saturday morning, tried to crowd his truck off the road and then jumped on his truck and hit him while he was wearing glasses.

SENATE DEADLOCKED OVER SEN CUMMINS

[By Associated Press]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The senate was thrown into deadlock today by a fight of the insurgents to prevent the re-election of Senator Cummins of Iowa, the president pro tem, as chairman of the interstate commerce committee.

On the first ballot Senator Cummins fell three short of the necessary majority, his vote being 41 to 39 for Senator Smith, democrat, South Carolina, and seven for Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, the recognized leader of the republican insurgent group.

M'GROARTY'S NEW HOME IS DESTROYED

Dedicated on Saturday, $20,000 Structure Burns Sunday

The new home of John Steven McGroarty, built in the Verdugo hills to replace the famous cottage destroyed by fire last Christmas, took fire this morning while the family was asleep, from a defective flue in one of the mammoth fireplaces and was burned to the ground.

Yesterday this home was the scene of a great house warming event under the auspices of the Women's clubs of Southern California, and over five thousand people thronged through the building.

The structure occupied a commanding position on the side of the hills and the 18 rooms were constructed along lines to afford opening up for gatherings of people. The total loss was about $20,000, of which only $8000 is covered by insurance. The structure was built of rock and boulders for the first story and had a tile roof. From an exterior brush fire it was supposed to be fireproof.

"I guess this is the way that God makes poets," said Mrs. Jessie M. Long, chairman of the Tujunga Woman's club committee, to the Daily Press reporter. "Last year when John's little cottage burned, he was the bravest of all the men and women who gathered around to help him save some of the wreck; but this time all of his library has burned and all of his precious mementoes, and temporarily it has overwhelmed him. He refused to allow the neighbors to help him last year in his financial loss but the Tujunga Woman's club has determined that he shall not be per-

OXY RELAY CARNIVAL ATTENDED BY 407 ATHLETES

At the Occidental College Relay Track carnival Saturday over 407 athletes from all over Southern California waged one of the most unique track meets ever seen in the west. In almost mid-December, these fellows were out doing their events while folks in the rest of the states were content to stay in and hug the fire. While the cold, dust-raising wind whipped mercilessly upon them, the trackesters did their work and did it well. No records were established, and Coach Pipal, father of the affair, did not have that idea in mind when he first fostered the meet. The pole vault was about the most difficult task of the day, as the cross bar could hardly be kept on, and the men's feet were so cold that they could hardly run. As it was three men were tied for first place. Twelve feet was accomplished by all of them, but that was as high as they could get. This is in reference to the open, and Goodenough, Eagle Rock's college star, with Beckmore of U. S. C., and Emmons, unattached, were the winners. Dean Cromwell's U. S. C. entries grabbed a majority of the medals; while Lincoln, Hollywood and Huntington Beach High schools copped a majority of the medals in their class.

In the passing contest, which was staged in the morning, Grafft of Santa Maria High looked like a future Brick Muller. His passing was very accurate and his distance was sixty-one yards. Pomona college won the cross country championship. Five of her men were first.

Occidental college beat the University of Southern California in the open medley relay. The time was 4: 22 2-5 The results, while not record breaking, show that the men are fast rounding into shape, and when the spring meets take place, California ought to be away ahead of the rest of the states. Coach Pipal of Occidental knew what he was doing when he inaugurated this event, and deserves a lot of credit for his interest in clean, wholesome athletics.

Glendale's Sewer

EXPERT INFORMATION FURNISHED DAILY ON THIS GREAT PROJECT

(In this column will appear from day to day, comments on the sewer project, which is the biggest thing that has ever confronted the citizens of Glendale, also articles prepared by the publicity committee of the sewer committee of the chamber of commerce which may be considered as expert information.)

Earl O. Pendroy, 332 North Brand boulevard: "I am heartily in favor of the sewer bond issue, shall vote for it, as I consider it the most feasible, practical and economical way of obtaining an essential public utility."

E. F. Sanders, 121 Fairview avenue, secretary of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce: "Glendale has never failed in anything she has ever attempted. She will not fail in connection with this bond issue. If the sewer bonds fail to pass, Glendale fails."

Mattison B. Jones, 727 Kenneth road: "I am wholeheartedly for the sewers. They are absolutely necessary for the future growth of Glendale. The people of Glendale have an opportunity at this time to do a great thing for their city—a thing that will reach many, many years into the future."

THE GLENDALE OUTFALL SEWER

The proposed Glendale outfall sewer to be constructed under the terms of the agreement between Los Angeles and Glendale is shown on the big plan and profile appearing on poge 8, where this article is concluded.

U. OF C. PURCHASES PROPERTY IN THE DEVASTATED AREA

Purchase of property adjoining the campus at Berkeley has been authorized by the regents of the University of California. The property will include a block in the midst of the devastated area. The cost of the block has been estimated at approximately $200,000. This property is well situated, being one block from the business center and within the apartment house district.

Several lots in the district have been bought to date and the work, which is progressing well, must naturally be slow because of the fact that 39 individual property holders must be approached.

Although no definite plan has been formulated, it is probable that the land will be used by the college of agriculture.

The campus has become overcrowded and an opportunity for expansion has been looked forward to for a long time.

The work of rebuilding houses in the devastated area, which already had been started, has been discontinued.

The block for which purchase has been planned is bounded by Hearst, Virginia, Oxford and Walnut streets. Additional purchase of land at the northeast corner of Oxford street has been contemplated.

EAGLE ROCK NOTES

The wind has caused a considerable amount of trouble the last day or two. Overhead awnings of business establishments have been torn loose or whipped to shreds, dozens of trees have been ruined, and several telephone poles have dropped. Saturday night the big wooden shield around the building at the northwest corner of Castle and Colorado was blown over. No one was hurt and it is considered very fortunate.

The fire in the hills above Colorado boulevard is all out, although for a time every one was getting rather apprehensive. Fifteen switches were lost in the substation of the Southern California Edison company. Several of the small trees on the Occidental campus were blown over and new ones will have to be planted.

There will be two performances of the "Birds' Christmas Carol" in the Central school Friday. The afternoon one is for the children, and the evening one will be for the grown-ups. If you cannot come to the evening performance then come to the one in the afternoon. It's going to be good. The people who miss this entertainment will certainly miss a good time. There is no admission fee, but at the suggestion of the Parent-Teachers' association any one who cares to make a silver offering may do so, as the money will be used to purchase instruments for the school orchestra.

The big community meeting of the Occidental-York Valley Improvement association will be held to night at 7:30 in the Occidental Presbyterian church, corner of York and Glassel. The reason for making the meeting at 7:30 is to get time to go over everything thoroughly. The playground project, in which everyone in Eagle Rock is interested, as well as the extension of York boulevard are the probable main topics of the evening. Get interested folks, and be sure to be there tonight, everyone It is not a single section affair. It's for everyone.

Tomorrow night at the Central school the Chamber of Commerce will hold an open forum meeting. This is for everybody, and many are going to take advantage of it. This is the one organization of the city that takes up everything. It is composed of all citizens who wish to put the town ahead, and prove it by coming out strong to all of the meetings. All civic problems are gone over, and this way the people of Eagle Rock can tell what is going on and how. The time is 8 o'clock.

BURBANK NOTES

Work has begun on the Presbyterian Sunday school bungalow to be erected on Fifth and Olive avenue. This bungalow is to be built especially for the primary department and will accomodate about 150 children, the building to cost about $3000.

Members of the Women's club in Burbank were very much shocked to hear yesterday that the home of John Steven McGroarty in the Verdugo hills had burned down, as they had just attended the housewarming of the great poet Saturday.

Burbank building permits issued Saturday were as follows: J. L. Barrows, Taft Triangle tract, garage, $150; Julius Gudding, Edgemont Park, garage, $100; J. A. Kensure, Edgemone Park, garage, $100; Louis Lopez, 425 Flower street, garage, $200; First Presbyterian church, bungalow, $3000; F. O. Winchester, tract office, $250.

A delightful musical program was given last night by the choir of the Presbyterian church. Selections from Mendelssohn were beautifully rendered and Rev. Stevenson read the synopsis of Mendelssohn's life. Mendelssohn's oratorio," "Saint Paul," was beautifully sung, while between selections the pastor read the story.

PERSONAL AND LOCAL ITEMS

F. A. Clark of Glendale was a San Diego visitor last Friday, registering at Hotel St. James.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Brown of 3933 Seneca avenue, Los Angeles, are enjoying a visit from Mrs. Brown's mother, Mrs. L. R. Ralston of Hutchinson, Kansas; an aunt, Mrs. Isabell Munger of El Paso, Texas, and an uncle and wife, Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Collings, of Ketchikan, Alaska. This is the first time the brother and sisters have all met in twenty-five years.

LA CRESCENTA NOTES

A group of local Girl Scouts attended the Scout ralley at Glendale last Saturday evening and report a most delightful time. The local organization is growing very rapidly under the capable supervision of Mrs. Jessie Hanson.

The Community church will have its next community sing on Wednesday evening at the church, with C. Rapson as leader. Rev. H. A. Kelso extends a cordial invitation to all residents of the La Crescenta valley to attend these services.

The quick action of the local fire department with the help of the residents of the La Crescenta valley prevented one of the most disastrous fires in this section for years. Burning brush on the new subdivision on Michigan avenue, just west of New York avenue was the direct cause of the conflagration. After the brush had been burned, the fires had seemingly been extinguished, but a high wind, coming up in the evening, uncovered the ashes and started the fire. The flames were 30 and 40 feet high, and at time it looked like the entire Verdugo hills district would be destroyed. Many families on New York and Honolulu avenues packed their belongings and left their homes. The local fire fighters were directed by C. P. Waste and C. Jennings Young, fire wardens of this district, who were deeply gratified at the able assistance given them.

BIG, NEW SUBDIVISION IN FOOTHILL DISTRICT

One hundred and forty acres of mountain land lying north of Mountain street, east of Campbell and west of the westerly line of the Bellehurst tract, one of the most wonderful pieces of foothill land in this section, has just been purchased by the A. E. Davies company. 4568 Hollywood boulevard and will be formally thrown open to the public soon under the name of the Glendale Bowl tract. The purchase was made from a syndicate of local men.

It is the plan of the Davies company to make the Glendale Bowl tract one of the highest class and artistic subdivisions in this section of Southern California. The improvements will include concrete streets, sidewalks, curbs, retaining walls, water, gas, electricity, telephones—in fact, everything that could possibly be needed in the strictly up-to-the-minute tract.

There will be one road constructed that will wind through the entire property. This will follow the contour of the various knolls, making one of the most scenic routes in the beautiful northern part of Glendale. From this main boulevard, side roads will run to all of the lots. The homesites in this property will be of different sizes, depending on the location, the grade, the scenic features, etc.

The tract secured its name, "bowl," from the fact that the central part of the tract lies in the form of a huge natural bowl. This will be improved in the finest possible manner, being lined on either side with beautiful homes, wide parkings, beautiful trees, lawns, etc.

This is one of the last pieces of property left in the beautiful northern section for subdivision purposes, and the tract will doubtless appeal to the hundreds of residents of this city and country as an ideal home location. Reasonable restrictions are being placed on the lots in order that the tract may maintain a strictly high character.

The A. E. Davies company will open a branch office in Glendale within a few days for the handling of its local business. Reservations in this tract are now being made.

"Our firm has had its eye on Glendale for a long time," said Mr. Davies this morning. "It is without double one of the most charming cities in this entire country. Its growth has been wonderful, and in coming to Glendale we aim to assist in its advancement. We like the Glendale people and their ways. We have many friends here and we are sure that as the days and weeks wear away this bond of friendship will be strengthened. We have a wonderful property in the Glendale Bowl tract and believe the folks of Southern California will appreciate this fact."

Isadore Rosenbaum went into business. Among his customers was a miserly fellow named Cassidy who would not settle.

When his clerk told him about it Rosenbaum said: "What kind of a letter did you write?" The clerk told him, and Rosenbaum said:

"That's no kind of letter to write," and sat down and wrote the following:

"Mr. Cassidy, who bought those goods of us? You. Who's a dirty loafer? Yours truly, Isadore Rosenbaum."

BOY SCOUTS COURT OF HONOR IS HELD SUNDAY NIGHT

Members of the Verdugo Hills District council, Boy Scouts of America, and their friends attended the quarterly court of honor held Sunday night at the Central avenue M. E. church, corner of Central and Palmer avenues. Despite the weather, there was a full house. Captain W. C. Wattles was the presiding officer. Seated on the platform were also A. R. Eastman, Peter L. Ferry, Frank C. Ayars and Roy L. Kent. Mr. Eastman, president of the Verdugo Hills District council and also member of the Elks' lodge, presented Troop No. 2 of Glendale, of which Kenneth Payne is scout master, with the first troop achievement prize, a beautiful silk American flag given by Glendale lodge No. 1289, B. P. O. E. Troop No. 2 was presented with a plaque, as the first prize for the annual Scout field day held recently at Burbank, by Roy Kent.

A very interesting scout demonstration of a litter drill was given by first class scout Robert Eastman. The court of honor was carried out somewhat differently this year than ever before. After the thirty-five boys had been called up to receive their merit badges each boy lit a candle and repeated one of the boy scout laws. he scout commissioner repeated the scout oath and lit three candles, one for each point of the law. France Henry led the boys in scout songs and ready a very interesting article on "Boy Scout Camping."

Robert Taylor, oldest scout master in Glendale, presented Mrs. Graham, who is an honorary member of the National council and is a descendant of the Indian chief, "Sitting Bull." She gave a very interesting talk on the benefits her boy had derived from scouting. Rev. L. C. Kline of the Central avenue M. E. church gave a fine address in which he stated that the boy scout program was the official boy program of the M. E. church.

The awarding of the merit badges was most interesting. The badges are insignia worn on the sleeves of the scouts and are awarded only after very rigid examinations. Boys who were promoted to the second class rank were Alfred Seaman, Charles Meech, Gould Moore, Edward Loeffler and Harry Bogan of Troop 1 and Dale Hurlburt of Troop 2. Boys promoted to first class rank were James Ferry, Vic Dupuy, Charles Martin, George Ward and George Peterson of Troop 1.

First class scouts who were awarded merit badges were as follows: John Torrey of Troop No. 2, public health, electricity and craftsmanship; Carter Booth of Troop 2, cycling, public health, firemanship; Charles Wyman, Jr., of Troop 2, public health and personal health; Lewis Wilson of Troop 1, life saving and swimming; Robert St. Clair of Troop 1, pioneering, first aid to animals, carpentry, craftsmanship, life saving, swimming, firemanship, cycling; Charles Kausen of Troop 2, cycling, public health; Jack Packard of Troop 2, personal health; Robert Sturgess of Troop 1, carpentry, swimming, life saving, firemanship, cycling, pioneering; Lawrence Christensen of Troop 1, life saving; James Ferry of Troop 1, pioneering and carpentry; Glenn Cunningham of Troop 3, astronomy and path finding; Otis Alshire of Troop 1, pioneering, carpentry, life saving, craftsmanship, swimming, firemanship and blacksmithing; Gordon W. Beavans of Troop 3, first aid, public health, personal health and firemanship; Charles A. Bosserman of Troop 3, first aid, public health, craftsmanship and automobiling; Lyman W. Bosserman of Troop 3, civics, electricity, scholarship, public health, first aid, art, craftsmanship; Charles S. Warefield of Troop 1, cycling and pioneering; Billy Bogen of Troop 1, first aid; George Peterson of Troop 1, cycling.

BURBANK JURY CAN'T AGREE IN SPEED CASE TRIAL

A jury trial was demanded by Harold Raymond of Van Nuys, charged with exceeding the speed limit by Officers Booth and Richardson, on November 22. The case was set for Friday afternoon and was heard and tried before a jury of 12 men: Harry Watson, Judge Shelton, Henry Story, E. E. Hamp, L. B. Evans, O. C. Lane, Frank Atwood, P. Romeo, Otto Simon, Chas. Thompson, Dr. Wilson and Chas. Talley. Attorney Kirk represented the city of Burbank and Attorney Peck of Glendale the defendant.

Sworn on the stand the officers both declared that in following up Raymond, their speedometers registered 45 miles per hour. Raymond charged that on account of an altercation Officer Booth had had with a friend of his, the arresting officer was prejudiced. Booth testified that at the time of arrest he did not know who the driver was. This was corroborated by Officer Richardson. The jury, however, after hearing the case, and after much deliberation, could not come to an agreement and a new trial has been set.

Books are men's best friends; when they bore him he can shut them up without giving offense.

Mrs. Widger's only lodger was an actor, and one night he presented her with two tickets to see him play the villian in the great drama , "All for Love."

Spellbound. Mrs. Widgers and her daughter watched the villian pursue his wicked way through three acts.

It was a great shock to her to find she had harbored such a villian beneath her roof. But worse was to come. In the last act the triumphant hero shot the villian through the heart.

"Oh, mother," cried Miss Widgers, in a voice that was heard above the loud applause; "they've killed our lodger and he owes us two weeks' rent!"

GLENDALE HI-Y MEMBERS WILL BANQUET TONIGHT

Glendale Hi-Y members will hold their monthly meeting and banquet tonight at the Central Christian church, with Dr. Hoar, recent arrival in Glendale, as the speaker. The glee club from the colored branch of the Y. M. C. A. on Ninth street, Los Angeles, will give musical selections.

On Saturday the Pioneer leaders of the Y. M. C. A. were entertained at dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rex C. Kelley, 416 East Lorraine street. This was followed by the regular monthly meeting. Activities for the month of December were discussed. The theme for the month is to be "Service," and bringing Christmas cheer to those less fortunate. During the Christmas holidays there is to be a four days' educational trip to San Diego, leaving Glendale by automobile on December 26. Arrangements have been made for one day to be spent at Balboa park, visiting the museums and other buildings there. Another day will be spent at the submarine base, navy yard and aviation field. The boys will be housed during their stay at the San Diego Y. M. C. A. building.

MRS. MABEL MOORE COMMENTS ON THE LORD'S PRAYER

Sunday evening, at 113 South Orange street, Mrs. Mabel Moore, of the Occult Science of Christ church, gave a helpful address on "The Lord's Prayer, or the Prayer of Knowledge." In the course of her talk, Mrs. Moore considered each verse of this remarkable prayer in the light of the Occult Teaching of the Christ.

In regard to the first two verses: "Our Father which art in heaven, hallowed be Thy name; thy kingdom come, Thy will be done in earth as it is in heaven," Mrs. Moore said in part: "We know that the kingdom of heaven is the kingdom of harmony, and it may exist in our minds and lives here on earth. Heaven does not mean a place of abode, but rather it is any place that we may be when our life is lived in tune with that divine self, or God. Therefore, when we repeat 'Our Father which art in heaven,' etc., we are speaking to that ever-present Spirit expressed within our own lives and the lives of all those about us. In repeating, 'Hallowed by Thy name,' we are saying 'blessed be the name of God expressed in the lives of friends. Hallowed be the name of divine love, expressed in wisdom and power, and understanding."

"Thy Kingdom come," Mrs. Moore pointed out, is the universe of worlds ruled in harmony. In this portion of the prayer, we are asking for this great blessing in our spiritual, mental, and physical life; for we know that we are heirs to that kingdom, because we are part of God, its Creator. In regard to "Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven," the speaker said: "The will of the Father is that the children of earth should be blessed with spiritual power, intellectual power, and an abundance of earthly goods."

"Give us this day our daily bread" does not refer only to the provision of man's physical needs, but to all things necessary for his advancement and development on all planes of being.

The speaker now came to what she said was one of the most important requests in the entire prayer. "Forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors" meant, she said, that in our forgiving, we should be absolutely sure that we have forgiven unto forgetfulness, for in Luke 6:38 we are told that as we measure out, it shall be measured to us again.

"And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil: for thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, forever, amen." The last but not the least verse of this great prayer, points out to us, Mrs. Moore said, that on the path to mastership there are many obstacles over which we must climb, and that in its repetition we are asking for the strength which would enable us to overcome any temptation which we might meet on that path.

JEWISH SISTERHOOD MET WITH MRS. GROSSMAN

One of the most interesting meetings of the season was held by the Jewish Sisterhood of Glendale on Friday, December 7, at 2 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. I. Grossman, 405 West California avenue. Mrs. Wm. Tyrrell was the hostess. Mrs. G. Phillips, presiding officer, called the meeting to order and after the reading by Mrs. W. J. Kramer, secretary, introduced Mrs. Jules Kaufman, prominent Los Angeles club woman. Mrs. Kaufman gave a very interesting talk, as did also Mrs. R. B. Krasnow. Current events were read by Miss Eva Daniels.

During the business session the organization endorsed the sewer bonds. It was voted that $3 be donated for the ex-service men and women at Barlow sanitarium, to be given through Mrs. E. W. Gilliland, chairman of that department for the Tuesday Afternoon club. Also, $2 was voted for the philanthropic work being sponsored by Dr. Hannah Luella Hukill. In addition, $5 was donated to the Jewish Consumptive home at Duarte. At the close of the meeting a social hour was enjoyed and delicious refreshments served.

C. W. CANNON, MISS IRENE WHITAKER WEDDED

Miss Irene Whitaker, daughter of Mrs. Margaret L. Whitaker of 407 West Harvard street, became the bride of C. W. Cannon of San Fernando at a very pretty and quiet home wedding which took place at her home on Saturday afternoon, December 8, 1923, at 2 o'clock. Rev. C. M. Calderwood officiated at the single ring ceremony.

Decorations of sweet peas and smilax were used throughout the house. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Frederick Whitaker. She wore a gown of white beaded georgette over satin and carried a shower bouquet of brides roses. The bridesmaid was Miss Alice Whitaker, sister of the bride, who wore a gown of orchid taffeta and carried orchid sweet peas. H. H. Cannon, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man.

After the ceremony refreshments were served, including a large wedding cake. Only immediate relatives and intimate friends were in attendance. Mr. and Mrs. Cannon have gone to San Francisco on their honeymoon trip and will be at home after January 1 at San Fernando. Mrs. Cannon was graduated from Glendale Union high school and attended the University of California, southern Branch, where she was a member of the Alpha Sigma Phi sorority. Mr. Cannon was a former student at the University of Utah.

BETROTHAL OF EARL MAYO AND NELLIE LORE ANNOUNCED

Coming as a surprise to the guests who had been invited to attend a birthday party given Saturday night, December 8, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Mayo, 911 North Columbus avenue, in celebration of the anniversary of Miss Nellie Lore, was the announcement of the engagement of this young lady and Earl Mayo, son of the host and hostess. Around a large birthday cake in the center of the table were favors, which were drawn by the guests, a ring going to Miss Lore, upon which she announced her engagement to Earl Mayo. Miss Lore was a member of the graduating class of June, 1923, from Glendale Union High school. Both she and Mr. Mayo are members of the First Baptists church.

Those present ata the party included Miss Nellie Lore, Mrs. Lore, Mr. and Mrs. O. T. DeDuc, Mr. and Mrs. W. Watson, Mrs. C. L. Mayor, Mrs. E. Knapp, Miss Faith Tarling, Miss Hazel Owen, Stanley Walker, Norman Nelson, Earl Mayor and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Mayo.

ARTICLE No. 7

In studying the play of the hands, there is no one thing of more value than the so-called "end play." The good player can determine the location of the last few cards in every hand and the proper way to play these few remaining cards constitutes end play. You don't need card sense to understand end plays. All you need is observation and the faculty of remembering the cards as played. Even without the natural aptitude for Auction that some players possess, you can acquire a good working knowledge of the game if you have the necessary grit and determination to improve.

The good player frequently makes plays that seem uncanny to the less experienced player but they are really not so wonderful. A good player is on the alert from the play of the first card and every play tells him something. By the time only a few cards remain to be played he knows every one, and if there is a way to gain a trick he can figure it out. Such results of observation, card memory, inferences and deductions seem extraordinary to the average player but they are really within reach of all.

In trying for end plays, be sure of your deductions before trying for the extra trick. For example, never risk the loss of a game or of your contract to gain the extra trick. First make sure of game and then take the chances. You can never acquire the knack without trying. Constant practice and correct deductions give the best results in Auction as in everything else.

The following are examples of the ordinary end plays that come up day after day:

Hand No. 1

Diamonds — 5
Clubs — K, 7

Diamonds — J
Clubs — J, 4

Y
A B
Z

Diamonds — 6
Spades — K, 10

Diamonds — 4
Spades — A, 9

Spades are trumps and Y leads the king of clubs. B trumps with the ten of spades and Z must not over-trump but should discard his losing diamond. This refusal to over-trump comes up very frequently and should be carefully studied.

Hand No. 2

Hearts — 7, 5
Diamonds — K, 7

Hearts — 10
Spades — A, 10, 9

A B
Z

Hearts — A
Diamonds — J, 6, 4

Hearts — 6
Clubs — 8
Spades — Q, 8

Spades are trumps and Z leads the six of hearts, which B wins with the ace. He must lead the diamond and Z should refuse to trump, knowing that A has nothing but trumps left and therefore must trump and lead up to Z's queen of spades. This play comes up very frequently and should be thoroughly understood

Hand No. 3

Diamonds — 5
Clubs — Q, 10

Spades — K, 8, 4

A B
Z

Diamonds — 4
Clubs — K, 9

Spades — A, J, 5

Spades are trumps and Z has the lead. He knows that all the remaining trumps are in A's hand so should lead the five of spades. A must win the trick and lead up to the ace Jack in Z's hand. If Z plays the ace and five of spades, A will win two tricks. This is another end play that comes up in many games of Auction.

Hand No. 4

Diamonds — 8, 7, 5, 4
Clubs — 6

Diamonds — 9, 2
Clubs — J, 7, 3

A B
Z

Diamonds — A, 6, 3
Clubs — 8
Spades — 5

Diamonds — K, Q, J, 9
Spades — K

Spades are trumps and Z is in the lead. If he leads the king of spades and takes out B's last trump, he will not win another trick but if he first leads the king of diamonds, he is sure to win three tricks. It is a play that comes up when your opponents have a set up suit and the top card of your suit. Under such conditions retain at least one trump in your own hand to regain the lead. In this example Z gains two tricks by refusing to lead the winning trump.

Hand No. 5

Clubs — 4, 2
Diamonds — K, 9, 4

Clubs — 10, 9, 7
Diamonds — 7, 3

A B
Z

Clubs — K, Q, J, 3
Spades — K

Clubs — A, 6, 5
Diamonds — 6
Spades — 5

Spades are trumps and Z is in the lead. The only way for him to win four of the five tricks is to lead the losing trump. B must win the trick and lead clubs, which Z wins with the ace and leads the six of diamonds. Y now wins the next three tricks.

Hand No. 6

Clubs — J
Diamonds — 6, 5

Diamonds — 10, 8
Spades — J

A B
Z

Diamonds — K, J, 4

Diamonds — A, Q
Spades — 7

There are no trumps and Z is in the lead. To win two of the three tricks, he must lead the losing spade, which A wins with the jack. A must now lead the diamonds up to the ace queen in Z's hand. This example illustrates one of the most common of end plays, throwing the lead to force the lead up to a tenace. Study these examples carefully for they are all common situations that arise every time you play. Be on the lookout for them.

Commerce Chambers to Join in Reform

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10.—Beginning with those of California, the chambers of commerce of America are to be enlisted for the first time in a "reform" movement.

This is the plan of Capt. Richmond Pearson Hobson, of Spanish war fame, now president of an organization whose purpose is to "render society immune from the menace of narcotic drugs by means of education."

"The growth of narcotic addiction in America is an appalling thing," Capt. Hobson says, "and the use of deadly habit-forming drugs is spreading so swiftly that we must devise swift means to meet it. Education is the fundamental weapon—education in the schools, in the homes, in the press, in the pulpits.

"We have found the chambers of commerce to be a rallying point for the coordination of community sentiment and the initiation of community action. Therefore we are asking California chambers of commerce to join with us in bringing the truth about narcotics quickly before the people."

Capt. Hobson says he and his associates hope to reach the 24,000,000 school children of America with the truth about narcotics before the end of the present school year

"EVERY MEMBER CHURCH" IS REV. C. A. COLE'S THEME

"An Every Member-Church" was Rev. C. A. Cole's sermon theme Sunday morning, preparatory for the every-member canvass which was held in the afternoon, when about 20 teams of men went out all over the city and suburbs to secure pledges for next year's budget. The text was "Each receives his manifestation of the spirit for the common good." The speaker called attention to the fact that in Old Testament times every member of the family, the tribe and the nation was expected to do his part. In the new dispensation it was the same. All of the Master's followers had a part in His work and when His church was established each member seemed to have a definite duty to perform. So it should be today. God has planned a unanimous church, and each member should have a part in the work, not simply a few do it all.

At the evening service three young men from California Christian college made short addresses, after the opening exercises, which consisted of congregational singing, followed by a duet sung by two college young people, Miss Grace Pitzer of Pomona and Eddie Townsend of Pasadena.

Stanley Weaver of Alhambra spoke on preparing the child in the home for a life of Christian education and work. Wallace Kent of Bakersfield touched on the value of a Christian education to the child and advised parents to choose the Christian college for their children. George Reeves of Coachella summed up the symposium by advising the choice of a Christian occupation for a livelihood after the college life is over.

The pastor of the church, Rev. Cole, commented briefly on these excellent addresses and expressed the hope that parents of children in the church would consider C. C. C. when college time comes.

Not every man's dignified silence is due to the fact that he doesn't know what to say.

Truths in Epigram

The golden moments in the stream of life rush past us, and we see nothing but sand; the angels come to visit us, and we only know them when they are gone.—George Eliot.

'Tis well to think well, it is divine to act well.—Horace Mann.

NO PEACE PRIZE

A cable from Norway states that no Nobel peace prize is to be awarded this year. Nobody is deemed to have earned the distinction. There have been the usual prizes for literary attainment, for physics, and other of the advanced activities, but for peace, nothing. Not even the energies of Mr. Bok have so crystalized as to prove the worth of his plan.

Nevertheless, the great desire of the world is for peace. The best minds of all nations are devoted to consideration of measures that shall cause wars to cease, establish tranquil relations on a firm basis; bind as into one family the peoples of the earth. There is no concert of action. Into each project, or in opposition to each, comes the element of greed. Diplomacy continues to be a series of tricks. No common plane upon which the governments may stand on even footing has been devised.

The perfect scheme was formulated ages ago. It has come down the centuries admitted to be the only effective suggestion. Men realize its worth, but reject it. It does not coincide with their personal desires. It interferes with their ambitions for individual or national aggrandizement. It cuts them off from the possibility of oppressing the weak, or taking advantage of the incautious. It involves the holding as sacred, of the qualities of honor, honesty, and unselfishness.

As every reader knows, reference is had to the Golden Rule.

RUSSIA'S IRON

A bolshevist-minded editor, functioning on an American paper, comments concerning the finding of the world's richest mine of magnetic ore in Russia. "The iron discovery," he says, "will make the United States think about recognizing Russia very seriously."

On the contrary the first thought it will incite will be that the tale is another bit of propaganda. Secondly will come the reflection that it would be a pity, were such an unexampled deposit found at all, that it should be in the one land, and under the jurisdiction of the one government, too crassly ineffective to benefit by it, or to permit the world to benefit. The editor mentions as well, the "inexhaustible supply of patient human labor" of Russia. All the "platinum, precious stones, coal, forests."

Russia was designed to be a land of plenty. It has been artificially wrought into a land of famine, and the oppression under which its common people have striven for generations, has been accentuated by the ruling masters. There is in abundance the human material that ought to be engaged in labor. Labor is denied its reward. Without reward or the prospect of reward, the effort of the laborer ceases. With its splendid natural equipment, Russia is doing nothing. Its people, who should be well fed, are familiar with hunger. In a land rich in forests and coal they freeze for lack of fuel.

In any other country a mountain of magnetic iron would be a vast asset. In the Russia of today it is an idle lump against the skyline. If such a mountain is there, some day it will be available, but not while the hands of the soviets strangle every possibility of enterprise.

THE MARTYRS OF PLAY

A dispatch appearing in the sporting pages says that nineteen fatalities have occurred as the result of football games of the closing season. The largest number of these players represented high schools. Five were from colleges and universities. Doubtless there will be those who, looking at these grim statistics, will argue for abolition of this form of sport. There is not the slightest likelihood of their wishes having effect. There is no type of manual contest free from risk. Baseball, swimming, racing and boxing all take toll of the participants.

Looking over the recorded accidents of a day, or any given period of time, it will see that comparatively few are to be ascribed to sports. There is no occupation free from risk; there is no zone of safety for members of the human race. The youth refraining from football for fear of injury, might encounter peril in any one of countless other ways. The argument that would abolish football might as well be utilized for stopping all activities that engage the energies of the body.

Automobile accidents are potent arguments in favor of discreet driving, but the impressive total is not an argument for forbidding the use of automobiles. Football is hedged about with many safeguards. Certain dangerous practices, once permissible, are forbidden. The players are selected for strength, agility, and powers of endurance. The diversion is not for physical weaklings, and such should avoid it. But the youth of sound frame, and a liking for victory, will continue to take the chances of the gridiron field.

SLAYERS OF CHARACTER

Not long ago the mayor of a New Jersey town committed suicide. He had borne a good reputation. There was every evidence that he was an honorable man, and the community respected him and believed in him. Yet he killed himself. Death was his only refuge from the blackmailer. The fact has transpired that in early youth he had been guilty of some violation of the law that had earned him a brief prison term. Ever after that his course had been upright. Somebody knew the facts about him and threatened him with exposure. An inkling of the truth reached some members of the city government. One of them felt it his duty, he said, to proclaim the mayor a "jailbird."

Against the dark spot in his record the mayor might have arrayed a long life of usefulness. Had he had the valiant spirit to face his traducers, admit freely his early mistake, and cite the circumstances showing that he had made amends, it is not unlikely the public admiring his frankness would have stood by him.

The man who commits a crime and pays the statutory penalty has met the obligation due to his unlawful act. If he emerges from the prison with the resolve to bury the past and to achieve a fair future, the person who puts an obstacle in his way is guilty of a course utterly contemptible.

In the present instance the son of the victim is on the trail of the blackmailers. It is to be hoped that he shall catch up. These slayers of character are entitled to no consideration. They have every characteristic of the assassin save that the latter sometimes has a sort of courage.

HONESTY A LA MODE

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

The juvenile world as well as that section of society which has but recently emerged from juvenility is working intensively just now on honesty.

Estelle Lawton Lindsey

Secrecy has gone heavily into the discard, and our gravest charge against our ancestors is that they hid their faults, failings and lapses from virtue, as interpreted by their times.

Honesty unquestionably has its merits, one of which is that it is likely to insure one against too close association with wardens, but it seems to those who still harbor here and there an old-fashioned idea that the field in which honesty may with propriety function can be limited without detriment to the race.

Probably we take pride in things without displaying them to the vulger and promiscuous eye. If you doubt the wisdom of this look about the orient a bit. For example, pride in motherhood is admirable and good for the race, but the fashion among Korean women of going about with uncovered breasts to which voracious youngsters are securely attached is a prideful publicity measure open to criticism. One may be proud of motherhood without taking such drastic measures to make the fact known.

China, noted for its commercial probity, is honest about deformity and disease. The open display of sores and twisted limbs has a eugenic value to one who considers marriage into the family of the afflicted, but I doubt if an oriental traveler could be found who would maintain that the custom adds to the joy or beauty of life in the Far East, though, to be sure, we must all admit that, in that country it has its commercial value.

It seems, too, that in selecting things for display we should distinguish between things which have always been hidden because wrong or ugly and those which have been concealed out of respect to a taboo.

Take sex—I am choosing it because so many of the young now make a practice of flaunting it in the faces of all and sundry. To accept sex facts naturally is wisdom, but to an onlooker a man under the obsession of sex attraction is not a little ridiculous. Witness the strutting of the turkey gobbler. He attracts the turkey hen but he adds to the gaiety of all spectators.

Were he capable of taking advice it might be well to suggest that he display his feathers and wattles in private.

For the same reasons the kissing of young people in public may be honest but it is not entertaining. It inspires passion-free folks with a desire to throw bricks.

We need not be ashamed of love to protect lovers from ridicule, and much of the respectful secrecy with which our ancestors were wont to surround it may have been due to an admirable desire to keep sacred things from vulgar ribaldry.

Let's be honest by all means, but let's keep some things where they belong.

Decent people do not, in America at least, bathe on the main thoroughfares and no one will for that reason charge them with avoiding the water.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

I like to watch Henny King cut grass and saw wood and polish the car. It's a treat. Henny is the most restful old Zulu I ever knew. He makes fewer motions than any working man I have ever held a watch on and he does not lose one.

"There's a right way to do things, Colonel Pilgrim," chuckles Henny, "and a wrong one. If you do 'em right you do 'em easy, and if you do 'em wrong you do 'em hard. I reckon a lazy man was the firs' ee-ficiency engineer."

He's got me doing it, too. It is a fact that Henny has a way of chasing the lawn mower that makes one think he is being pulled by it. But he gets the grass cut. He would leave a few warts and blemihses on the car if I did not keep an eye on him, for no one would pretend that Henny takes pride in his labor. He works only because 'Lizabeth long ago notified him that she would no longer produce his cakes and bacon by her toil. But as a polisher he is supreme. He gets a gloss on the old buggy that has never been equalled in a few talented strokes.

"Technique, Boss, sir, Colonel Pilgrim," says Henny. "Yas, suh."

It's a fact. That no-account Henny King has lighted upon something of value. There is an easy way of shaving, but I had to experiment to find it—being inspired thereto by Henny—although I have been shaving for a considerable spell of years. There is an easy way of starting the car. You get the spark just so and the throttle just so and she goes off with a whiz. Golf players do not want easy ways of holding their funny little hoes, but books have been written about the technique. I've remodeled my handwriting since I became Hennyized, so that I now write faster, easier and more legibly than before. The easy way to do commonplace things has become a fascinating study.

Henny is going to look after my furnace this winter. I want to see the Stradivarius of the shovel at his soft coal symphony. Maybe next winter I will not mind doing that work myself.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

JAMES W. FOLEY

About the Boss, for instance.
There always has to be a Boss.
Somebody to run the business.
To find money for the payrolls.
To bring in the orders.
To see that the work is done.
That the institution remains solvent.

* * *

There are bosses everywhere.
In the beehive there is a Boss.
The Queen Bee.
And in the ant hill there is the Boss Ant.
Nothing can run without a Boss.

* * *

You yourself can't run without a Boss.
You are the Boss of yourself.
You tell yourself what you will do today.
And how you will do it.
Whether you will work or play.
Loaf or be busy.
Remain at the desk or go fishing.
Or golfing.

* * *

There is Boss-ship in the universe.
It could not run without it.
The mandate of immutable law.
That regulates the orbits of the planets.
Governs the tides.
Keeps the parts of the universe in harmony and motion.

* * *

Nothing can survive without regulation.
Things cannot run haphazard.
Otherwise they would go to seed.
If there is no Boss of the field, then the field grows to weeds.
And is useless.

In the store.
In the bank.
In the newspaper.
In the church.
In the office.
Everywhere there has to be a Boss.
Somebody to whom things finally are referred.
Who says yes or no.
Do or don't.

* * *

So the Boss has his place.
And the success of his business depends on the loyalty of the persons who work for him.
Persons who are disloyal to the Boss undermine the business.
Because they infect everybody else with disloyalty.

So whatever the business is.
Whether you like it or not.
Work loyally for the Boss.
And when you can't work loyaliy for the Boss, wish him well and quit.
Get out.
Sever connection.
Get into something else.

* * *

The laws of the universe are that universal forces shall work for the Boss.
The law of gravitation.
Otherwise there would be continual disturbance throughout the universe.
The law of centrifugal force.
The attraction of capillaries.

* * *

All of these laws are servants of the Boss.
And by serving the Boss they maintain stability and equilibrium in the universe.
Think what tragedy would be if the law of forces should strike.
And the earth sink into the bottomless pit of space.

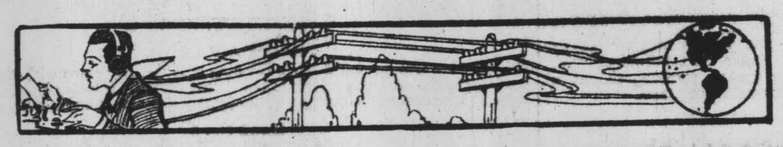
Work for the Boss.
Be loyal.
Square.
Dependable.
And when you can't be, quit.



Songs of the Poets

Memory—By Oliver Goldsmith

O Memory, thou fond deceiver,
Still importunate and vain,
To former joys recurring ever,
And turning all the past to pain:

Thou, like the world, th' oppress'd oppressing,
Thy smiles increase the wretch's woe:
And he who wants each other blessing
In thee must ever find a foe.

THE TRAIN IN THE TUNNEL

By DR. FRANK CRANE

"HIS conversation is like the noise of a train in a tunnel, one idea deafening you with its echoes."

I found this sentence in a recent little book I picked up in an English book-stall.

It is a most meaty and pungent phrase. Who has not heard that noise? When Binks comes along you hear the tunnel-roar before he begins to talk on the one subject that resounds forever in his head. He overwhelms you with theatrical talk.

Jinks is loaded to the muzzle with single-tax arguments; Rinks is whirled away by some new religious fad, and when he leaves you your head is buzzing with shattered fragments of I Kings 4, 2, and John 7, 9; Ginks is quite sane enough until you mention baseball when the tunnel roar of Sox and Cubs begins. Hinks roars of his garden, his house, his pigs, his whole domestic hobby; Minks begins to reverberate when he gets upon the topic of politics, both he and you are deafened by the overtones of his one idea; and Winks is a quiet little man enough until the matter of prohibition is brought up, when his eye kindles and the train begins to roll.

It is well to be earnest and to have convictions, but, in the language of the street, "there are others."

I have a few hobbies myself. There are certain subjects upon which I am ready to wax eloquent at the drop of the hat. I will discuss with you the League of Nations, or Prohibition, or the Single Tax or Universal Military Train or Democracy in the Public Schools, and a dozen other things if you will but set me going. You may think that I harp too much on certain questions, but you don't understand how terribly I have to control myself to keep from harping still more.

"What's done we partly may compute
But know not what's resisted."

Life is wide and desultory, there are a number of things in the world including a very, very large number of burning questions, and it behooves all of us to burn around a little here and there and not confine our conflagration to one spot.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

MODERN HERODS

[Philadelphia Public Ledger]

In the center of Twelfth street, its broad, downtown, north-and-south thoroughfare, St. Louis has dedicated a pathetic monument. The inscription reads:

In Memory
of Child Life, Sacrificed
on the Altar of Haste and Recklessness.

It is a memorial to the thirty-two children killed by automobiles in that city in the year 1923. It stands where the tides of traffic from the west and east cross those moving north and south. Every motorist in that western city will pass it in the ordinary occasions of his travel. It will be a silent reminder to the already careful and conscientious, it may impress the reckless for a time, but it will make no impression upon the smooth brain lobes of the congenital fool at the steering wheel. He will always be far beyond reach or hope.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Laws forbidding the marriage of an idiot seem to be violated with frequency. When a man applies for a marriage license there should be at least enough of an examination as to determine whether he is a fool.

HENRY JAMES

Recently a young chap and a girl were united by due process, license, ceremony and all. The bride was taken to the home of the husband and there introduced to his wife No. 1. The latter, while taken by surprise, was as courteous as the circumstances would permit. The husband explained pleasantly, and apparently without understanding that his conduct was unusual, that he wanted them both. Indeed, he had been unable to decide which he preferred. So he had undertaken to love, cherish and protect the pair of 'em. He's in a jail just at present, but quarters in some retreat for the feeble-minded should be prepared for him.

When any one desires a license to run an elevator in a warehouse, he is obliged to submit to tests determining his capacity.

When he wants to get married no test is imposed. He already may have at least one wife, and possibly a dozen, and besides this, be silly almost to the gibber and droll status of the complete imbecile. No matter about this. This is a free country, and as free for the idiot as for another.

It is almost pathetic to read that the dictator of Bavaria is issuing his edicts from a barricaded house. In such conditions it seems unlikely that his dictation will be taken long or very seriously. A late order of his is that lavish expenditures in the homes of the rich shall cease. Otherwise the homes will be confiscated.

While he has to dwell behind a barricade it is doubtful if he can control the conduct of citizens who at least have over him the advantage of being able to come and go at will.

The New York federal prosecutor says that he was offered $100,000 to "lay off" the king of bootleggers. He spurned the bribe, which was a feat of spurning worth making of record.

In the civil war there was an officer who was offered $10,000 if he would let a cargo of cotton through the blockade. The money was declined, and the bid was raised by big jumps. When it got as high as $100,000, the officer begged to be relieved from duty. "These fellows," he explained, "are getting too near my price."

The row in the house was due to a plan to defeat Speaker Gillette. It resulted in delaying business a few days, and then Gillette was elected.

As to who gained anything by all the monkey business there has been no explanation yet.

Any fight against crime that does not include a fight upon the parole as practised in this state, is bound to be ineffective. The probation scheme, although it has good points, is greatly overworked.

One certainty is that crime is not to be overcome by the abolition of penalty.

Gracious! but the modern bandit is getting to be the fresh thing. One has just robbed a man right in the midst of the throng in the Pacific Electric station at Los Angeles. No mask; simply a pistol and a curt remark.

About the same time another staged his game at Fifth and Spring, the very heart of business Los Angeles. Got away with it, too.

One remarks these and similar incidents and regrets that police attention is centered in any part upon the enforcement of laws of bluish tint.

Gentleman of the cloth, as clergymen sometimes are known, are not immune to adverse criticism. Most of them escape it because of the simple fact that they do not merit it. That is to say, that cloth or no cloth, they would be gentlemen.

Occasionally there is one of the Billy Sunday type. Such an individual must expect somebody to take an occasional fall out of him, and learns not to resent it. Then there are those who are veritable hounds for publicity. They thrust themselves into notice, pose and rant, and interfere with everybody's business. They are social irritants, professional Meddlesome Matties. And courtesy is mightily strained in letting them off unroasted.

One of the onslaughts upon professional bondsmen, that occur at irregular intervals, seems to be in progress. Nothing is accomplished by them as a rule. The crooked bondsman merely keeps out of sight for a time, and then resumes business, crooked as ever.

Once in a great while some poor simpleton who has been induced to go bail for a rascal loses the surety. The real offenders have nothing to lose either in property or repute, and are quite safe.

The average citizen has no sympathy with blue laws, this meaning such laws as interfere with harmless amusements of others.

No better plan could be devised for creating a sentiment that would remove even present wholesome restrictions than the enforcement of regulations infringing on innocent enjoyment of personal liberty.

The statement is made that a minister of familiar name has received a threat of tar and feathers.

This amounts to a new feather in his cap.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

POOR CHILD

Peggy fell down and skinned her knee. She sat up and looked at it ruefully and mother came running down the path. "Poor child, poor child," she mourned gathering the sturdy child in her arms. "So sorry you fell on that mean old path. Poor Peggy."

Peggy would have been less than child had she not lifted her voice and wept. The more she wept the more mother patted and soothed and crooned, "Poor Peggy."

When Peggy went to school, learning to read was hard work. It is for many children, but they manage it by and by and nobody thinks of saying "poor children."

But Peggy's mother said, "Poor Peggy! Reading is so hard for her. Seems as though everything came hard to her. Poor thing! And she didn't get the best teacher either. Queer how some children have it so hard. Others get along without a bit of trouble and poor Peggy gets the worst of it every time. Poor little thing!"

And Peggy, perfectly healthy and intelligent and able in every way, began to think she was to be pitied and when no one else thought so she pitied herself. If there is anything worse than that for a growing child to labor under I don't know what it is.

If instead of saying when Peggy fell down, "Poor Peggy," somebody had said, "Up she goes. That's a girl. A little skin off? Thats nothing. We'll wash it up a bit and powder it and make it believe it's going on a party," and had gone on with the job. Peggy would have thought no more about it.

If when the lesson came hard somebody had said, "Don't worry, you know almost everybody has some trouble with words. I had a great time learning to say 'was' at the right place too. I know it now, all right! Bring your book and we'll see how many of the rascals we can find."

If when anything went wrong with the child someone had pointed it away from her instead of toward her she would have learned to make such things impersonal and so made herself master of the situation instead of being mastered by it.

It isn't kind to teach a child to pity itself. It's worse than unkind to teach them to hug their miseries and look for more. There is no reason why any human being should be so handicapped and certainly not a healthy, happy joyous child.

If their trials sometimes wring your heart, speak in tones of sympathy, comfort them but help them by turning away from pity toward cheerful patience and hopeful forward looking adjustment. No self pity.

Modern Version of New Testament

By EDGAR J. GOODSPEED

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO MARK

But he persisted vehemently,

"If I have to die with you, I will never disown you."

And they all said the same thing.

They came to a place called Gethsemane, and he said to his disciples,

"Sit down here while I pray."

And he took Peter, James, and John along with him, and he began to feel distress and dread, and he said to them,

"My heart is almost breaking. You must stay here and keep watch." And he went on a little way and threw himself on the ground and prayed that if it were possible he might be spared the hour of trial; and he said,

"Abba!" that is, Father, "Anything is possible for you! Take this cup away from me! Yet not what I please but what you do!"

When he went back he found them asleep, and he said to Peter,

"Simon, are you asleep? Were you not able to watch for one hour? You must all watch and pray that you may not be subjected to trial. One's spirit is eager, but human nature is weak."

He went away again and prayed in the same words as before. When he came back he found them asleep again, for they could hardly keep their eyes open; and they did not know what answer to make to him. When he came back for the third time, he said to them,

"Are you still sleeping and taking your rest? Enough of this! The time has come. See! the Son of Man is betrayed into the hands of wicked men. Get up, let us be going. Look! here comes my betrayer!"

Just at that moment, while he was still speaking, Judas, who was one of the Twelve, came up, and with him a crowd of men with swords and clubs, from the high priests, scribes, and elders. Now the man who betrayed him had given them a signal, saying,

"The one I kiss is the man. Seize him and take him safely away."

So when he came he went straight up to Jesus and said, "Master!" and kissed him affectionately.

And they laid hands on him and seized him. But one of the bystanders drew his sword and struck at the high priest's slave and cut his ear off. And Jesus spoke and said to them,

"Have you come out to arrest me with swords and clubs, as thought I were a robber? I have been among you day after day in the Temple teaching, and you never seized me. But let the Scriptures be fulfilled!"

Then all the disciples left him and made their escape. And a young man followed him with nothing but a linen cloth about his body; and they seized him, but he left the cloth behind and ran away naked.

They took Jesus away to the high priest, and all the high priests, elders, and scribes came together. And Peter followed him at a distance, right into the courtyard of the high priest and sat down with the attendants and warmed himself at the fire. The high priests and the whole council tried to get evidence against Jesus in order to put him to death, and they could find none, for while many gave false testimony against him their evidence did not agree. Some got up and gave false testimony against him to this effect:

"We oursleves have heard him say, 'I will tear down this sanctuary built by men's hands, and in three days I will build another, made without hands.'"

And even then their evidence did not agree. Then the high priest got up and came forward into the center and asked Jesus,

"Have you no answer to make? What about their evidence against you?"

But Jesus was silent and made no answer. The high priest again questioned him and said to him,

"Are you the Christ, the son of the Blessed One?"

But Jesus said,

"I am! and you will all see the Son of Man seated at the right hand of the Almighty and coming in the clouds of the sky!"

Then the high priest tore his clothing, and said,

"What do we want of witnesses now? Did you hear his blasphemy? What is your decision?"

And they all condemned him as deserving to be put to death. And some started to spit at him and to blindfold him and strike him, and say to him,

"Now show that you are a prophet!"

And the attendants slapped him as they took charge of him.

While Peter was down in the courtyard, one of the high priest's maids came up, and seeing Peter warming himself, she looked at him and said,

"You were with this Jesus of Nazareth too!"

But he denied it, saying,

"I do not know or understand what you mean."

He went out into the gateway. And the maid saw him there and began again to tell the bystanders,

"This fellow is one of them!"

But he denied it again. And again a little while after, the bystanders said to Peter,

"You certainly are one of them, for you are a Galilean!"

But he began to swear with the strongest oaths,

"I do not know this man that you are talking about!"

At that moment for the second time a cock crowed. And Peter remembered how Jesus had said to him, "Before the cock crows twice, you will disown me three times!" And at that, he wept aloud.

As soon as it was daylight, the high priests held a consultation with the elders and scribes, and they and the whole council bound Jesus and took him away and handed him over to Pilate. Pilate asked him,

"Are you the king of the Jews?"

He answered,

"Yes."

And the high priests kept heaping accusations upon him. But Pilate again asked him,

"Have you no answer to make? See what charges they are making against you."

But Jesus made no further answer at all, so that Pilate wondered. Now at festival time he used to set free for them one prisoner, whom they petitioned for. There was in prison a man called Barabbas, among some revolutionaries who in their outbreak had committed murder. And a crowd of people came up and started to ask him for the usual favor. Pilate asked them,

"Do you want me to set the king of the Jews free for you?"

For he knew that the high priests had handed him over to him out of envy. But the high priests stirred up the crowd to get him to set Barabbas free for them instead. And Pilate again said to them,

"Then what shall I do with the man you call the king of the Jews?"

They shouted back,

"Crucify him!"

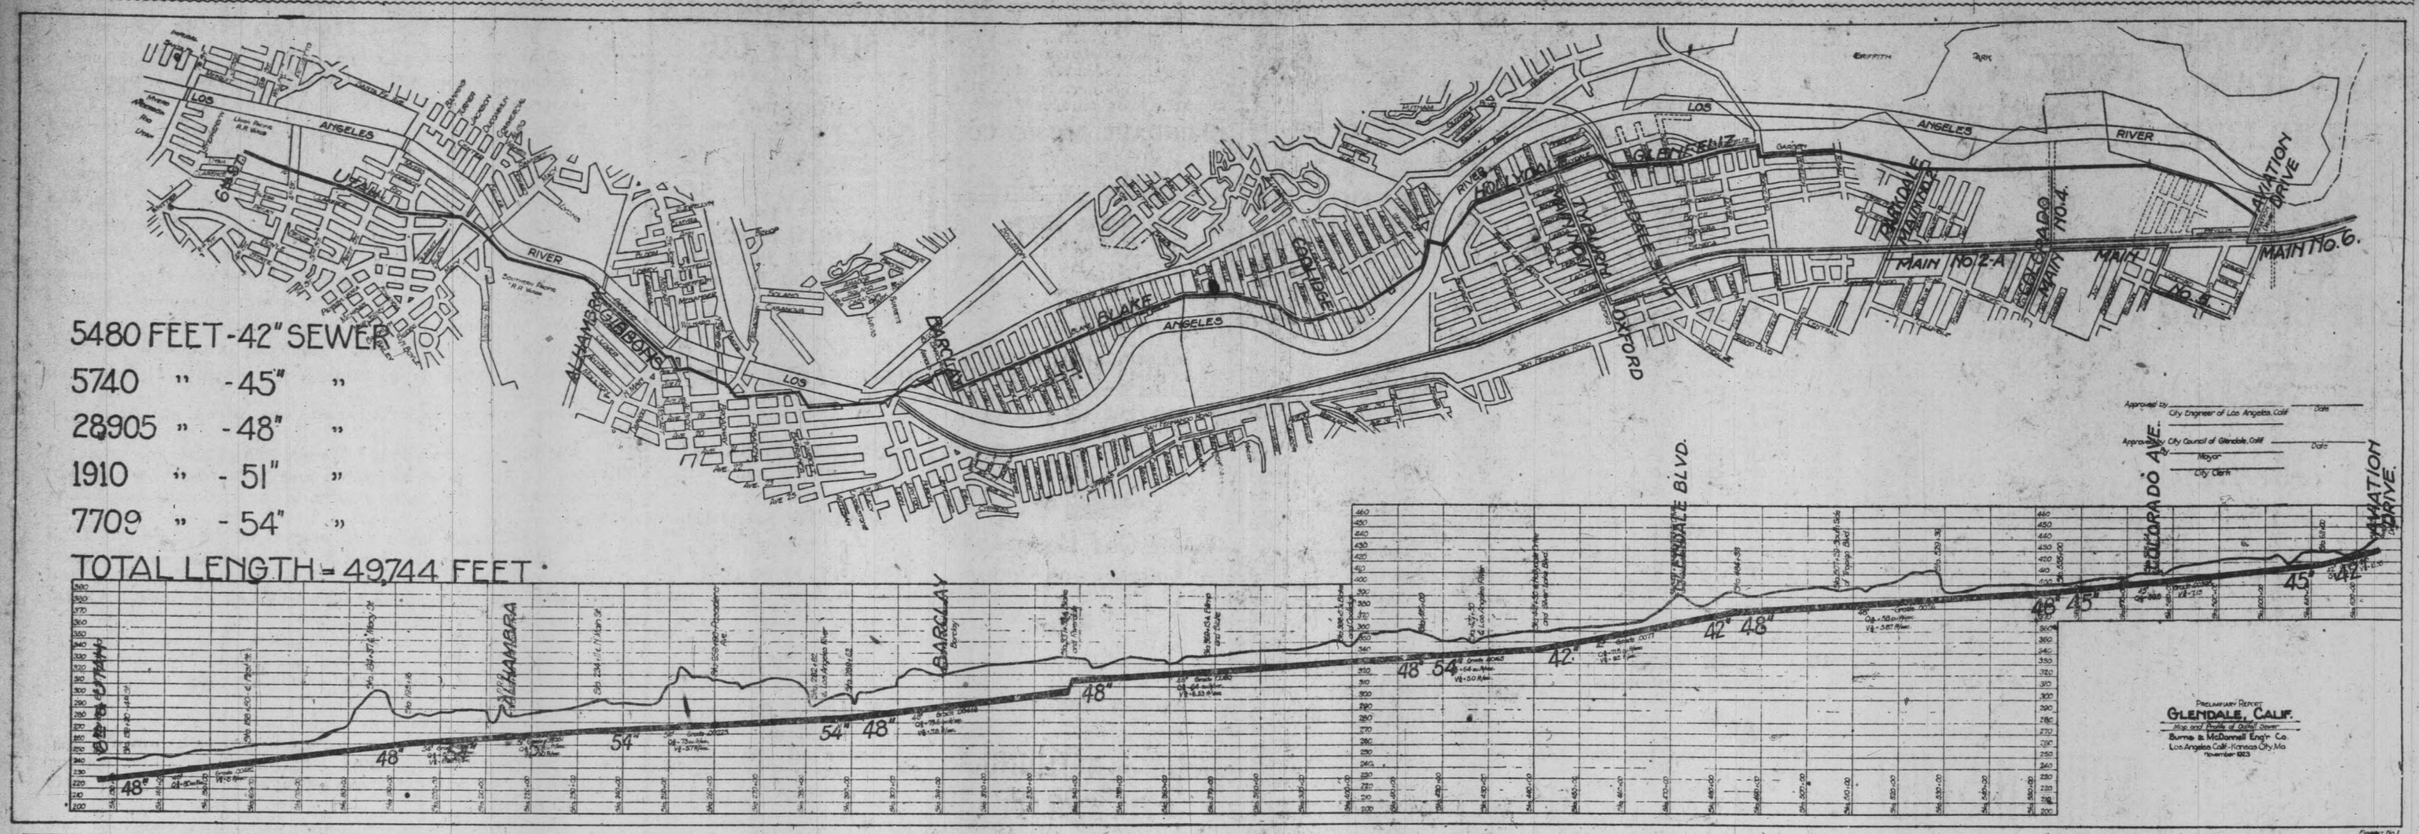
And Pilate said to them,

"Why, what has he done that is wrong?"

But they shouted all the louder,

"Crucify him!"

Here Is a Complete Outline of Sewer Mains for Glendale's Project as Planned by Engineers



Glendale's Sewer

The line as shown is approximately ten miles long and is estimated to cost approximely $1,250,000. Beginning at Sixth and Utah streets, it follows the general course of the Los Angeles river, through streets, across railroad tracks, under street car tracks and across city playgrounds. For most of the way it will be possible to construct this sewer in open trench. Other sections will be constructed in tunnels. The Los Angeles river is crossed at two points where it is necessary, in order to protect the line from being damaged by floods, to lay it deep under the river bed. From a point near Alhambra avenue and extending north, the construction work will be complicated by the presence of ground water which will necessitate pumping and special construction features.

At Tyburn and Hollydale drive proposed main No. 1, serving Glendale, enters the outfall sewer. Main No. 2 enters at Parkdale, while main No. 4 enters at Colorado. Main No. 6 which together with main No. 7 and main No. 8 serve the entire north section of Glendale, enter at Aviation drive, which is the end of the outfall line to be constructed by Glendale.

A general summary of the size and length of the line follows:

42-inch diameter sewer	5,480 feet
45-inch diameter sewer	5,740 feet
48-inch diameter sewer	28,905 feet
51-inch diameter sewer	1,910 feet
54-inch diameter sewer	7,709 feet
Total length	49,744 feet

The sizes and capacity of this sewer have been carefully designed by the engineering department of the city of Los Angeles to be adequate for future needs of all the tributary territory served by this sewer for a period of 30 to 40 years. These have also been checked by Burns & McDonnell Engineering company. The preliminary plans, types of construction, profile and all important features including estimates of cost prepared by Burns & McDonnell Engineering company have been submitted to sewer division of the engineering department of Los Angeles, and have been agreed upon as being of economic and permanent construction.

Competitive bids will be received on the construction of this line and the type of construction will be chosen that will be the most economical.

HIGH WINDS DAMAGE BUSINESS HOUSES IN BURBANK

Considerable damage has been done in Burbank by the heavy and unusual winds which have swept through the valley the past few days. The large Lewis Drug company sign up above the building on the corner of Angeleno avenue and San Fernando boulevard was demolished, fortunately not injuring any one. The Exchange cafe sign which was on the corner of the Thompson building toppled sideways and knocked a corner of the building off. A large plate glass in the window of Young's Department store was completely blown out, as were skylights and windows at the Santa Rosa hotel. A garage house on the hill was blown over and deposited in the middle of 10th street and a number of roofs were blown off. It is to be hoped that this freak wind will do no further damage.

Their sins and the bill collectors often find men out.

phone company's property also has been damaged by the storm and full crews of repairmen today are being kept busy replacing poles and restringing telephone lines.

"Service is pretty good," reported Wire Chief L. Kitchenal. "Of course, there are a few lines out of order. If the wind dies down we expect to have all the damage repaired before night. Of course, if the wind keeps on all day, this will be impossible.

The street departmnet today is cooperating with home owners in the removal of trees from the streets and lawns. Among the places where trees have been blown down are the following: Doran and Louise streets, 1226 South Maryland avenue, 337 West Lexington drive, 143 South Glendale avenue, 1015 East Windsor road, 137 and 347 North Orange street, 724 South Maryland avenue, 345 Burchett street, 208 East Dryden street, 203 East Acacia avenue, 333 Burchett street, 1226 East Lexington drive, 321 Milford street and 202 North Brand boulevard. Numerous other trees are unreported.

The public service department today is doing its best to get poles replaced and electric lines restrung before nightfall. Reports came in faster than the damage could be repaired. An effort is being made to provide every home with electricity as soon as possible.

One of the freaks of the storm was the catch by Officer R. L. McLean of a large globe from the top of the ornamental standard on the northwest corner of Brand boulevard and Broadway. According to report, he was in the vicinity about 3:15 a. m.—just in time to catch the globe as it blew off. As proof of the episode the globe was taken to the police station. Officer McLean is the same one who recently found a snake on his beat.

Hayward & McCartney of 142 South Brand boulevard intend in the future to fasten their tract offices down with anchors. One of them was lifted by the cyclone into Tenth street near Alameda avenue. Fortunately there were no customers in it.

Glendale's business district seems to have escaped from the tornado with a minimum of damage. The H. S. Webb department store at 139 North Brand boulevard had a plate glass window broken. The Superior Printing company at 610 East Broadway had its new electric sign wrenched from its iron supports. A large plate glass window in Mattison B. Jones' store building at Brand and California was broken. The Glendale Awning company at 222 South Brand boulevard is expected to do a large business in the near future repairing awnings.

On Arden avenue, just west of Brand, a falling tree's roots lifted a water main and broke it, causing a flood for a time.

WOOD WORKERS GET AUTONOMY

[By Associated Press]

LONDON, Dec. 10.—In view of the difficulties of preserving continuity between the parent organization and branches in the United States and Canada, the Amalgamated Society of Woodworkers of Great Britain has decided to give their American membership complete local autonomy and control over their own affairs. It is stated that management expenses in the United States and Canada have grown to an average annual charge of more than 25 shillings per member.

NEW HOME OF JOHN S. M'GROARTY BURNS

mitted to refuse this time. His every thought is for the neighbors and the people of the Southland and his every worry is about them. The local folks have already subscribed $500 and I am going to take the responsibility of asking the local papers and affiliated clubs to instantly assume the rebuilding of that wonderful home around these charred foundation walls. As they said at Verdun, we say 'It shall not burn' We will now build one to stay and stand forever."

Mr. McGroarty did not feel equal to being interviewed at this time, but to close personal friends he is reported as saying: "It was too sweet. I apparently am not to have the little gathering place. Precious books are gone but tell the neighbors and the folks everywhere how precious it is to have a roaring hell like that burning under the roof all night and get out with my wife and all my family unhurt and not discouraged. It is somewhat of a succession of difficulties, but didn't Job have boils? Tell the members of the congregation that all's well. God reigns and the little upper studio cottage still stands as before."

DID YOU DRINK YOUR SHARE OF ALL THIS STUFF?

Almost nineteen million glasses of soft drinks were sold in Southern California in November, an increase of more than 5,000,000 over the same period of 1922, but at the same time figures given out yesterday by Collector of Internal Revenue Rex Goodcell indicated that in the face of the enormous increase in the sale of soft drinks, tax was paid in November on brandy that would fortify 600,000 gallons of sweet wine against a production of only 186,000 gallons for November of last year.

Federal tax paid on near-beers, grape juice and ginger ale represented sales of 18,642,233 glasses, compared with 13,368,000 for November of 1922, a gain of 5,273,833 glasses.

Fountain syrups on which tax was paid were capable of producing 11,918,208 glasses of soda water, as against 9,536,000 for last November.

Manufacturers of carbonic acid gas reported taxable sales that would make 1,197,625 glasses of charged drinks, compared with 517,400 for November, 1922.

Recapitulation of Collector Goodcell's report indicated that taxes were paid on 18,642,233 glasses of soft drinks of all kinds in November, as against 13,368,400 for the same period of a year ago, an increase of 5,273,833.

While the soft drink business increased, $52,225 in taxes was collected during November on 87,042 gallons of grape brandy to be used in fortifying sweet wines. This quantity would produce approximately 600,000 gallons of sweet wines ranging from 14 per cent to 21 per cent of alcoholic strength, or from 28 to 42 proof. Last November only $15,977 was paid and 26,630 gallons of brandy used in fortifying 186,000 gallons of port, muscatel, sherry, burgundy and other sweet wines.

DOLL'S WARDROBE TRUNK

The small owner of a doll with an extensive wardrobe will rejoice in the possession of a doll's wardrobe trunk. These trunks are clever copies of the large ones, and have a row of drawers on one side and the usual hangers on the other.

THREE BIG, NEW BUILDINGS SOON FOR EAGLE ROCK

Another big building is going up soon, according to Mr. Roy A. McLean, president of the R. A. McLean Motor Sales company, Inc. A one-story building will be erected at the corner of Colorado and Fremont, he said in an interview Saturday. The dimensions are to be 125 feet on Colorado and 140 feet on Fremont.

There will be four very attractive stores between the present building and the corner. The corner store will be used exclusively for the display of Chevrolet motor cars. The offices will be on the mezzanine floor. This includes both the general offices and the president's private office. Downstairs will be the sales manager's office, together with the sales closing room, and the assembly room.

Facing on Fremont there will be a building 65 by 125 feet devoted exclusively to Chevrolet parts, service and the repair department. It will be equipped with all the latest machinery to facilitate the quick repairing of Chevrolet cars. The entire building is expected to be completed about March 1. Owing to the fact that the present quarters are too small for the tremendous business which this firm has had since its establishment four short months ago, the owners deem it absolutely necessary to find more spacious quarters.

The fact that this popular firm has found it necessary to increase its quarters, is only one more proof of the growing of Eagle Rock.

There are two more important buildings to go up soon. One will cost in the neighborhood of $40,000. The other is an addition to a well-known city department. December will be a banner month yet!

REV. A. B. SMART'S CONDITION IS NOW QUITE FAVORABLE

Rev. A. B. Smart, of 110 Olive street, Glendale, who was knocked down by a truck while crossing a street in Los Angeles recently, is still in the hospital and his condition is quite favorable. In addition to a broken rib, two broken bones in the right forearm and many face cuts, he suffered a very severe concussion of the brain. In spite of his advanced age, 85, he is recovering slowly, but surely, was the cheering word given this morning by his daughter, Mrs. Cara Root.

FRESNO, Cal., Dec. 10.—Trial of Mrs. Eliza Potegrian, charged with the murder of her step-daughter, Mary Potgerian by administering poison was continued until February 4, 1924. The order for continuance was given by Judge J. E. Woolley before whom the case was scheduled to be tried this morning. Continuance resulted from requests of defense counsel, Phillip Conley, that he be shown copies of documentary evidence, including stenographic reports of chemists, doctors and others, the prosecution, through D. S. Church, assistant attorney general, agreed to this request.

EARLY THRIFT A NECESSITY WITH MANY PRESIDENTS

By S. W. STRAUS,
President American Society for Thrift.

IF you would learn a lesson in the constructive values of thirft, study the lives of our Presidents.

S. W. STRAUS

John Adams taught school as a young man to obtain money for his education in the law; Zachary Taylor labored as a boy on his father's southern plantation and had practically no early educational advantages; Millard Fillmore worked as a village school teacher and borrowed the money to enable him to study law.

The early struggles of Abraham Lincoln and the disadvantages under which he became one of the greatest men of all time, are known the world over. As a boy Lincoln, "the rail-splitter," worked for ten years on his father's farm, and it is said that all of his schooling amounted to only one year. Andrew Johnson came from a poor family in North Carolina, and as a boy was apprenticed for ten years to a tailor during which time he taught himself to read and write.

James A. Garfield had practically no educational advantages as a young man, and was compelled to maintain himself early in life by the hardest of farm labor. At one period he earned his livelihood by driving a team of mules for a canal boat.

Warren G. Harding started life doing chores on a farm in Ohio. For several years he earned his livelihood as a type-setter, school teacher, insurance agent and newspaper reporter.

Calvin Coolidge's first job was a chore boy on his father's farm. He worked his way through college part of the time. His vacations all were spent in earning money.

One might easily add to the list of our Presidents who have learned the value of thrift as an element of success. Hayes, Cleveland, McKinley and Wilson learned its value out of the book of their own early struggles.

These are not new facts. Every schoolboy should know them. Every young man beginning a business career should be reminded of these splendid examples of obstacles overcome.

The lives of most really successful men constitute our best lessons in thrift.

Train Young Prince For Hungary Throne

[By Associated Press]

BUDAPEST, Dec. 10.—Political gossip is dwelling just now on the deep interest shown by certain Hungarians in the education of Prince Otto, eldest son of Karl, late emperor of Austria and King of Hungary.

Otto, eleven years old, is in Spain. Leaders of Hungarian royalists, including Counts Andrassy and Szechen and Bishop Mikes are fearful of the predomination of Austrian influences in the boy's education and have demanded, it is said, a clear cut Hungarian education for him.

The royalists have received with satisfaction the news that members of the Hapsburg dynasty have renewed their oath of loyalty towards Otto, pledging themselves to respect the priority of all his claims.

P. E. BUS COLLIDES WITH AUTO SUNDAY

The wind storm kept much traffic off Glendale streets over the week and and few collisions were reported to the police department.

A Pacific Electric bus driven by Earl R. Biggs of Los Angeles yesterday collided with a machine driven by Tracy Shaw of Los Angeles. Mrs. Sarah R. Shaw was badly shaken up and slightly injured.

"I was approaching the corner of Myrtle street on Central avenue," reported Mr. Biggs. "The other machine ran into my bus."

Mr. Shaw asserts that the bus "cut" the corner. The left front wheel of his machine was broken and his radiator was dented.

Sir William Hardman, author of "A Mid-Victorian Pepys," tells a yarn about a Mrs. Atkinson, widow of a celebrated Siberian traveler, a bright-eyed intelligent woman, small in stature, who "polished off Meredith at dinner in glorious style": "He was in high spirits, and talking fast and loud. The Surrey hills, the Hindhead and Devil's Punchbowl were the subjects of discussion, and George Meredith asserted (I know not on what authority) that the view from the Hindhead was very like Africa. Mrs. Atkinson pricked up her ears and, bending forward across the table, asked in a clear but low voice: 'And pray, sir, may I ask what part of Africa you have visited?' Alas! poor Robin (Hardman's nickname for Meredith), he has never been farther south than Venice."

Curing your Golf Troubles

By Jim Barnes

Dear Sir: Is there any recognized theory as between the use of light or heavy clubs for the short swinger or the man who takes a full swing? In other words, should the player who uses a short lean to heavy clubs or light ones, or does this make any particular difference?

I can't say that there is any fixed relation in these matters. Some players who take full sweeping swings use fairly heavy clubs, while I know others that swing in the same way with club no heavier than the average club, say around 13 ounces, for their wooden clubs.

Theoretically I should say that the lighter clubs are possibly better suited to the player with a full swing, whereas the short swinger seemingly ought to get better results with fally heavy clubs. The basis for this theory is that the player who swings back only a short way is likely to be in more of a hurry to hit the ball, and consequently may need a club with more weight to make him conscious of the feel of the clubhead.

Similarly the man who swings fully is possibly a bit more likely to take his time in getting the club back down, and for this reason may find it easier to control lighter clubs. It must of course be borne in mind that a player who has rather weak wrists can hardly hope to acquire the proper control of heavy clubs.

SHOP EARLY SECTION

Just how "merry" will YOUR Christmas be this year? It depends a great deal on how you plan your holiday buying. Some people wait till the last furious days before Christmas, then rush pell mell through their shopping. Others—very much wiser—begin making their holiday purchases many weeks in advance, choosing at leisure from stocks that are complete; availing themselves of the helpful, unhurried service of salespeople.

This year it is easy for all of us to avoid the dread last-minute-before-Christmas rush. We can thank our progressive merchants, who have assembled the most magnificent selection of Christmas merchandise that ever delighted Glendale—and it's all ready for choosing RIGHT NOW.

Only 12 SHOPPING DAYS BEFORE CHRISTMAS

By all means go and look over the displays as early as you possibly can. You will find solutions galore to all your gift problems. You will find courtesy, economy, quality, service. Start your shopping NOW and your Christmas this year will indeed be a merry one!

Only 12 SHOPPING DAYS BEFORE CHRISTMAS

CHRISTMAS TOYS ARE NOW WELL NIGH FINISHED

Toys for the Christmas work which the Girls' and Boys' leagues of Glendale Union high school conduct every Christmas, are now nearing completion. To the boys of the woodworking department much credit is due. They worked almost unceasingly on these toys putting them together, cutting out the parts and fixing over old toys. Boys have also volunteered during the fourth period in the morning and the third period in the afternoon.

The art department is now doing the decorating, and the toys will be finished soon. The freshmen art classes have painted the smaller toys and the following girls are decorating the things designed by the art department: Margaret M. Brown, Marzelle Greer, Ruth Cameron, Grace Emerick and Lucile Eldridge.

The Girls' league will distribute these at Christmas time during their philanthropic work. As is known by most students the Girls' and Boys' leagues take care of several poor families at Christmas time. The toys made will gladden the hearts of many little children.

The boys made a large number of doll beds and some cradles. There are also doll chairs, red and black roosters, yellow and black ducks on wheels, tea tables, acrobat dolls, a rocking horse, and jack rabbit racers.

Old Man "Boreas"

blew into our store Saturday night looking for some of our well-known bargains. He came in through two big plate glass windows and tore the awnings to shreds.

Though slightly disfigured we are "still in the ring" and welcome our customers——through the door (or windows) as usual.

DEBATE QUESTION HAS BEEN CHOSEN FOR GLENDALE HI

"Resolved: That military training should be adopted in all the high schools of the United States." This is the question that has been chosen for the sophomore-freshman debate which will occur very soon after the holidays.

Tryouts are to be held Monday and they will be in two groups. First, the Sophomore tryouts will be held at 9:15, third period a. m., Monday in Room 127. All budding sophomore debaters are asked to take special notice of this as it is of the greatest importance to themselves and their class.

The judges are Miss Kinney, Miss Renison and Miss Hunter.

The freshman tryouts will also be held Monday during the fourth period a. m., in Room 39, and the fifth period p. m., in the auditorium. The judges are the freshman class teachers and the student coaches.

This idea of student coaches is being tried for the first time and it is hoped will prove to be a decided success. Prominent debaters and orators from the upper classes have been chosen to help the underclass men in cases of this kind and thus gain valuable experience.

Mr. Miller, chairman of the freshman faculty advisors, and Mr. Fuller, chairman of the sophomore faculyt advisors, drew the names of the following students respectively:

Charlotte Busby, Bonnie Jean Lockwood, Wendell Beauchamp, Jack Finch, Charles Worley, Arden Gingery.

Mary J. Phillips, Isabel Tousey, Kathryn McNary, Velma Bolton, Don McMillan, Horace Anderson.

Besides having the help and advice of these well-known authorities, the lucky young debaters-to-be will be assisted, both classes impartially by Miss Corry, debating coach, and Paul Cunningham, secretary of debating.

Cement Production Unable to Keep Pace With Demand

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—Cement production established another record in October exceeding the record made in September by 241,000 barrels. Production totaled 13,350,000 barrels, the highest of any month on record, according to the Geological Survey. Shipments during October exceeded production by almost 1,000,000 barrels.

Supplies, which have been diminishing monthly since February, were the lowest since October a year ago. Stocks on October 31 this year totaled 4,597,000 barrels or about one-third of a month's supply at the October rate of shipments.

MOCK CHERRY PIE

One and a quarter cups cranberries, 3-4 cup raisins, 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon flour, 1-2 cup cold water, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla. Chop cranberries and raisins, or put through food chopper, add sugar and flour mixed together, then water and vanilla. Bake between two crusts. This pie is delicious.

When a man combines business with pleasure, business usually gets the short end of it.

EDITORIALS BY THE PEOPLE

Editor Daily Press:

I now submit additional comment on the main points of Supt. White's article which appeared in the Daily Press, November 23. "First, it has been said that we are teaching too many frills in the public schools," says Mr. White.

He says that 23 subjects are required by statute to be taught in the public schools of this state, and when he suggests with a fine sense of humor, "if some of them should not be taught the only remedy is to change the law." As this statute is no doubt like most sections of California school laws, the product of the united efforts of a well organized coterie of educators whose activities are chiefly distinguished by their encroachment upon domains relating only indirectly and sometimes very remotely to bona fide educational interests, it would be highly interesting to witness the commotion that would follow the introduction of a bill in the legislature for the purpose of eliminating "frills" from the present prescribed curriculum The echoes of the hubbub over the budget are still resounding through the state and the concerted attempt by educator-politicians to defeat the enforcement of the recently adopted constitutional provision on that matter affords convincing proof of what kind of storm would follow any attempt of the general public —the people—to "meddle" in affairs which the educator-politicians claims the exclusive right to control Surely Mr White waxes facetious in referring us to Sacramento for a remedy.

Mr. White then proceeds to the consideration of the criticism "that so much time is given to the teaching of so-called frills, that we are not teaching the fundamentals efficiently." To this criticism he enters a spirited denial He then offers in support of his contention some recently oft-repeated statements about the resurrection of some examination papers and the records pertaining to them of the vintage of 1845, in two New England schools. It is alleged that the same examination tests have been given recently to pupils of the same grade in the same schools and also have been tried out in Berkeley, this state. We have the further exparte statement that the results of these tests were favorable to the present-day pupils and that this disposes of criticism No. 2.

Granting that the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth has been said about these records and examination tests, both old and recent, the facts are not highly important per se.

Whether or not the fundamentals are taught efficiently—not by comparison with ancient times, but as a matter of fact—is a question that can not be easily dismissed. The acid test for this comes in the personal contact and experience with the product of present-day schools and it will be difficult for those charged with school management to satisfy the public that present-day pupils in our public schools are receiving the proper mental (and moral) discipline or being well grounded in the fundamentals—mental, moral and physical—indispensable to a reasonable degree of self-respecting success in this work-a-day world.

"We now come to the criticism that the schools cost too much and that we are spending too much money on them," is Mr. White's introduction to the big feature of his article. Then follows this dictum: "There are two ways of deciding whether something costs too much and one way is to determine whether it costs more than it is worth * * * There is another way of deciding this question of whether or not the public schools are costing too much, and that is by deciding whether or not they cost more than we can afford."

Mr. White's presentation of the criticism is not a full and correct statement of the fact. The criticism of which he complains goes to the very marrow of our system of school management and is not directed at the schools except to the extent that they are the manifestations of incompetent and wasteful management. The responsibility for this waste and incompetence must not be placed solely on the bonafide educators. Boards of education, patrons of the schools and local communities must take their large share of responsibility for the present-day conditions which exist in school management.

But neither of the two rules laid down by Mr. White will stand the test of application. That both are specious and worthless for the purpose stated can be easily demonstrated. There are some things of the highest value whose "worth" cannot be measured in dollars and cents. To illustrate the fallacy of Mr. White's tests to determine "whether or not something costs too much," to-wit: "Is it worth what it costs?" or "can we afford it?" let us use a simple illustration. The water that flows through the Los Angeles aqueduct is indispensable to the very existence of the city of Los Angeles as we now know it, and on the principles laid down by Mr. White if it had cost $100,000,000 — or $500,000,000 — instead of $23,000,000 to build the aqueduct it would be "worth what it cost" and the people it serves could "afford" to pay the bill. But to answer the question properly one must inquire what it should have cost to construct the aqueduct by competent engineers working under efficient, business-like and econmical management. If it could be built thus for $23,000,000 then $100,000,000 would be "too much" regardless of the fact that it might be "worth" that amount to Los Angeles or that the city could "afford" to pay it.

There are not two ways of determining whether or not "our schools cost too much."

On the contrary there is but one way and that is by inquiring into their costs and determining these questions: Are they wastefully or incompetently managed? Do they cost more, not than they are "worth," but more than they reasonably should cost for the service rendered or for the quality of service that should be rendered?

In arriving at correct answers to these questions there is opportunity for a wide difference of opinion particularly for the reason that cost expenditures in detail do not appear to be available to the general public.

With your indulgence, Mr. Editor, I shall give futrher consideration to Mr. White's article in an early issue of your esteemed paper.

French Women Rush To Have Hair Bobbed

[By Associated Press]

PARIS, Dec. 10.—Bobbed hair has long been accepted as standard practice in Paris, but there has developed suddenly such a rush to the shears that it is realized now that only a small proportion of the women have had their locks trimmed.

Advocates of short hair have taken advantage of this situation to spread further the doctrine of the bobbed head, and newspapers are carrying interviews and comment that would lead one to suppose the movement is new.

Hairdressers offer no explanation for the thousands coming to them to have their hair cut just in time to catch cold this winter, but they ask no questions and cut.

Rev. Kringel's Theme, "Unmerciful Debtor"

Rev. Henry D. Kringel of the Zion Lutheran congregation delivered a sermon on the theme taken from Mathew 18:23-35, "The Unmerciful Debtor." A good audience was present. The speaker said in part:

'To him who hears this gospel lesson only when it is read in a public service, it would seem as if Christ here teaches simply the duty of forgiving. The careful Bible student knows that He does more. The words preceding our text tell us that Christ told Peter to forgive until seventy times seven. Peter had been willing to forgive, yea, not only to forgive, but to forgive quite a number of times. Not that Peter was unwilling to forgive, nor that he was slow to forgive, but that he thought there ought to be a limit to his forgiving, called forth this parable.

"Let us not lose sight of this. A Christian need not be taught that it is his duty to forgive. He knows it. His own heart demands it. God's Holy Spirit reminds him of it. The one thing he does not always remember, the one lesson he has to learn, at which he has to study all the days of his life is that his readiness to forgive must know no limit; or, in the words of Christ, that his duty 'to forgive not seven times, but seventy times seven.'

"There must be no limit to our willingness to forgive, because there is none to God's and also because the slightest attempt would make us guilty of the blackest of sins.

"'Therefore is the Kingdom of Heaven likened unto a certain king, which would take account of his servants.' Let us not overlook that the king is God, the almighty and all-knowing Ruler of the universe, and that the account to be taken of his servants He would take Himself. When, therefore, the final reckoning comes, nothing will be forgotten.

"Ah, what a reckoning! Christ compares the sins of his servant with ten thousand talents, or—to approximately give U. S. money—with some ten million dollars. Suppose our Redeemer, Jesus Christ, arose to pray for you and me, somewhat as Abraham prayed for Sodom and Gomorrah: 'Lord if there be but seven sins in him, wilt Thou destroy him?' Would that be sufficient? Or if He spake again and said, 'Peradventure, there shall be no more than seventy times seven found in him, wilt Thou then destroy him?' Would you feel entirely safe? My dear believer, what hope would there be for you if God's grace were not simply boundless? For the sake of God's mercy, let us put no limit upon our willingness to forgive.

"The king forgave the servant his debt of ten thousand talents, yet the same servant went out and found one of his fellow-servants which owed him an hundred pence, and he laid hands of him and took him by the throat, saying, 'Pay me that thou owest!'

"That this was wrong, unmercifully cruel, is at once apparent. But should we really be guilty of the same atrocity, if we venture to put just a little check upon our willingness to forgive? It seems as if it could not be so, but it is. The slightest effort toward this end is one of the darkest transgressions that a believing Christian can become guilty of.

"A believer in Christ as the Son of God knows that all his sins have been washed away by the holy and precious blood of his merciful Saviour on the Cross. In the Old Testament we read: 'The Lord God, merciful and gracious, long-suffering, and abundant in goodness and truth, keeping mercy for thousands, forgiving iniquity and transgressions and sin.' Let us forgive them their trespasses as God forgives us our trespasses. And—'Blessed are the merciful, for they shall obtain mercy.'"

League Seeks Labor Statistics

[By Associated Press]

GENEVA, Dec. 10.—An international conference on labor statistics has just completed its meetings here by adopting a series of resolutions judged by technicians to be of special interest to the world of labor.

They ask all countries to make a classification of professions and industries; to compile statistics of wages, salaries and the length of hours of work, and to furnish the international labor office with all information concerning accidents occurring in connection with labor. Fifty delegates representing 33 countries attended the sessions and made provisional plans for another conference to study the cost of living. This statistical study of labor questions is expected to lead to a general improvement of labor conditions throughout the world.

NAZARENE REVIVAL WELL ATTENDED

Despite the high winds, both afternoon and evening services at the Glendale Nazarene church on Sunday were well attended. Rev. J. T. Hatfield, the evangelist was at his best at both services and preached two very helpful sermons. He and the pastor, Rev. Scheideman, expressed themselves as being very much pleased with the attendance. Special music for the afternoon included a solo by Frank E. Brown of Glendale. The evening services at the young people's meeting was featured by a song service. Announcement was made of the meeting of the Southern California Holiness association to be held at the Central Avenue Methodist church all day on Tuesday. The morning session is to begin at 10 o'clock and the afternoon session at 1:30.

Meetings at the Nazarene church will continue each evening this week with services at 7:30. Everyone is invited to attend all of the services.

KEITH L. BROOKS COMMENTS ON CAIN AND ABEL STORY

The Cain and Abel story recorded in the fourth chapter of Genesis was explained interestingly by Keith L. Brooks, teacher of the Presbyterian Brotherhood Bible class, Sunday morning. Mr. Brooks pointed out that the sad history of the fall of man was followed with the chapter that sets forth the ravages of sin and the introduction of two kinds of religion that has ever since prevailed in the world. He stated that all still gather either with Cain in his bloodless worship which discounts sin, or with Abel, who accepted God's revelation of the way of salvation. Emphasis was laid upon the statement of Heb. 11:4, that Abel offered by faith, which implies that he had been given some previous instruction as to the way men were to approach God. Mr. Brooks went on:

"Cain brought an offering of the fruit of the ground. Some say it was natural for Cain to bring his own products, even as Abel brought some of those in which he specialized, but why should either of them bring any offering at all? Some divine order must have established offerings as an ordinance of worship, and if so, the proper offering must have been specified. Adam surely taught his children what he had learned about the way a sinner could approach God, yet Cain does the very thing Adam first did. He got his covering from the field instead of the flock.

"Abel brought of the firstlings of his flock. The Lord had respect unto Abel and his offering, but rejected Cain and his offering. Wherein was the difference? Abel brought in faith, Cain in form. Abel was accepted because his offering was appropriate, foreshadowing the Lamb of God, the Redeemer who had already been promised. He was accepted because he offered in obedience to God's revelation. Cain considered God merely as Creator and would not recognize Him as Redeemer. Cain would not take his place before God as a guilty sinner unable to save himself and needing one greater than himself to pay the penalty of his sins. The same difference exists among men today.

"When his offering was rejected, Cain was wroth. This reveals his spiritual condition, and those who refuse God's way of salvation very often to this day get angry. Cain started an argument with his brother, ending by slaying Abel. The worship of God was the first occasion of difference among men.

"It is alarming to notice the rapid spread of the pleasing Cain worship in churches today. It is seen in the liberalism that begins by pronouncing all religions good and ends by making light of the Bible. The book of Jude, which warns of the fearful apostasy in the closing days of this age, says, 'Woe unto them for they have gone in the way of Cain.' There are still but two religions in the world —God's and man's. The world's most destructive heresy is still the belief that man can save himself by his own niceness and the excellence of his gifts to the church or to charity."

That a light, fast team playing the open field game can hold a heavy line plunging outfit more than 20 pounds heavier was shown Saturday when the Glendale High eleven outplayed the Long Beach team for all but the first six minutes of the game. During the first six minutes the Jackrabbits' weight got in its deadly work. The Glendale line simply could not hold against a much heavier force which threw its attacks in unexpected places. As a result, Long Beach scored twice in the first six minutes of play.

During this time the Glendale team learned the real strength of the Long Beach charging power. They had discovered the weaknesses of the Long Beach attack and from that time on Long Beach never got a look in, although the beachers did ring up a safety and two points when Howard Elliot was nailed behind his own goal line for a safety.

Not only was the Glendale eleven able to hold Long Beach during the rest of the game, but it scored a touchdown and threw Drury for a safety behind the Long Beach goal line. The Glendale Dynamiters showed themselves to be the best open field ground gainers in the prep ranks. They passed, ran the ends and kicked, although the latter-mentioned method of attack was practically useless because of the high wind. In all probability without the high wind one or two of Howard Elliot's trys for field goals on place kicks would have succeeded.

The Jackrabbits went into the game thinking they would win by six or seven touchdowns but came out with a decidedly wholesome respect for Glendale. The Dynamiters did what no other team has been able to do when in the last three quarters they stopped the Long Beach plunges through the line. The beachers got in their attack early enough, however, before Glendale could stop it, to put over two touchdowns for a win.

CASEYS DOWN THE ZELZAH BALL TEAM

CASEYS DOWN——

Playing in a heavy wind that made real baseball impossible, the Glendale Knights of Columbus baseball team yesterday defeated the Zelzah nine by the score of 11 to 4 at the Glendale baseball park.

The Caseys grabbed an early lead by pushing over five runs in the first inning. The Zelzah team never caught up. Bacon pitched for the Caseys, with File in the box for Zelzah. The hitting of Manusch and the Dell brothers featured the game. The score:

SCHEDULE FOR 1924 CONFERENCE GRID GAMES READY

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—Officially approving the Washington-Navy game at Pasadena on New Year's Day, but straddling the question of post-season games as an issue, the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate conference met here Friday. The chief item of business on Friday's program was the arrangement of the schedule for 1924. It proved a difficult job, but a schedule was finally completed. Among the interesting games slated for Southern California will be the U. S. C.-Stanford affair to be played in Los Angeles November 8, and the U. S. C.-Idaho game November 22. A non-conference game will be played between U. S. C. and Montana in Los Angeles November 15. The Trojans meet California at Berkeley November 1, while the California-Stanford affair is set for November 22 at Palo Alto. The official schedule follows:

CALIFORNIA

October 25—Washington State at Berkeley.
November 1—U. S. C. at Berkeley.
November 8—Washington at Seattle.
November 15—(Open).
November 22—Stanford at Berkeley.

BUICKS DEFEATED GLENDALE A. C. CLUB

Coming from behind in the ninth inning with a rally of eight runs, the Buick Auto baseballers of Los Angeles defeated the Glendale Athletic club baseball team at the Glendale ball park Saturday afternoon. The locals grabbed the lead in the fourth inning and held it until the terrible batting spree of the Buicks. At the opening of the ninth the score stood 7 to 3 in favor of the Glendale Athletics.

Lefty Bacon heaved fine ball for Glendale for eight innings and then suddenly weakened. Mengis pitched for the Buicks. He was hit hard in the fourth, sixth and seventh innings. Six singles, an error, two walks and two sacrifices gave the Buicks eight runs and the game in the final canto.

The batting of James, Kerr and Martin, and the fielding of James, Kerr, Sousa, Keough, Helve, Colby, Acosta and E. Harrison featured the game.

The final score—Buicks 11, Glendale A. C. 7.

WIND PLAYS HAVOC WITH BASEBALL SCHEDULE

Wind played havoc with the semi-pro schedule yesterday, none of the Triple A, Double A and A division clubs appearing on the sandlots for the reason that there was lots of sand.

Standings in the Triple A, Double A and A divisions remain unchanged and play will go on as scheduled next Sunday. The games postponed from yesterday will be played at the end of the season.

Tonight's meeting of the Managers' Association will undoubtedly be marred by considerable rowing over the confusion due to yesterday's windstorm. However, as is the general custom, after the team bosses unload their troubles, they will come to some mutual agreement and then go home with all arguments out of their systems.

With several holdover matters of importance coming up, tonight's confab will more than likely be a lively one. This meeting will be held at the B. H. Dyas store, Seventh and Olive. In the event that the presiding officer, Judge Paul J. McCormack, is unable to wield the gavel at this session, it will be ably taken care of by his first lieutenants, Harry Hennessey or Josh Clarke.

A special meeting of the magnates of the Triple A division has been called for 6 o'clock at the Hoffman cafe on South Spring street. After the bosses of this circuit get together they will probably make a number of rulings which will affect the entire Winter league.

It looks like a busy night for the semi-pros.

The class had been told to draw a picture of a river with two figures sitting on the bank. Going round the class the teacher came to a boy who had finished his drawing. She looked at his paper and was surprised to find only a river.

"Why, Jack," she said, "where are the two people I told you to draw?"

"Well, you see, miss," he answered, "I'm not very good at drawing people so I put up a notice: 'Trespassers will be prosecuted.'"

CUB BASKETEERS ARE STRENGTHENED BY RECRUITS

In spite of the handicap caused by a lack of material, Coach Caddy Works is rapidly rounding a basketball team into shape at the University of Southern California. Seventeen men are out regularly for practice and while there are only three of last season's squad back in uniform, some good players are developing among those out to help build up a good aggregation.

Cyril Eaton, a member of the Cub five for three years, has been assisting Coach Works with the training during the last week.

The men have been confining themselves mainly to the assimilation of the Works system and straight practice. Marked improvement has been shown in the way the men handle the sphere.

Most of the men who are out were members of last year's championship freshman squad and they are pretty promising looking material. Charley Earl, Milly Millstein, Stan McCauley, Sam Abramson are all working hard for places.

Wilburn Johns, Bill Goertz and Horace Bresee of last season's squad are all sure of places on the first string five while Franklyn Pierce, who was ineligible during the 1923 season, Grayson Turney, Roger Vargas, Ruddy Erickson, Merwyn Craft, Walter McManus, Lloyd Bodle, Loren Foote, and Dick Love, are giving them real completition. The hopes of the team have been somewhat heightened by the fact that Lenn Martin and Loran Peake, both of football fame, are to be out for the squad.

While it is impossible to make any definite predictions about the squad, present indications are that Coach Works will overcome the many handicaps that have presented themselves and make another Southern California championship aggregation.

LONG BEACH GRIDS BEAT GLENDALE 15-8

failed to kick the goal. A blocked punt gave Long Beach the ball after the next kick-off, and the same steam roller paraded down the field for another touchdown, Hill taking the ball across the line. This time Evans kicked the goal, and the score stood Long Beach 13, Glendale 0.

Some say that it was stage fright that caused the Dynamiters to weaken and allow the Jackrabbits to go right down the field for two scores so early in the game. This may be so, but we are inclined to believe that the real reason for the two scores was that Glendale had not had sufficient time to form a defense to combat the heavy plunging Long Beach team, and the Beachers just simply took them off their feet. Once Glendale was able to devise an adequate defense, Long Beach was through scoring. When the Dynamiters found that the great Drury, despite his 190 pounds and wonderful reputation, could be tackled and stopped the same as any other football player, they took a fresh start and set out to play a real offensive game as well as form a defense against the Long Beach attack. Glendale held Long Beach during the rest of the first period, and the ball was in possession of Long Beach on the Glendale 40-yard line when the quarter ended.

Glendale got possession of the oval in the second quarter when Drury punted out of bounds after Long Beach had failed to gain in four downs. Glendale gained considerable ground on several plays, including a 15-yard run by Howard Elliot, but lost the ball on a fumble. Hill of Long Beach made a wonderful 30-yard run, only to hurdle over Howard Elliot and receive a 15-yard penalty. Long Beach punted and Howard Elliot made a 45-yard run around end, bringing the ball to the center of the field. A pass from H. Elliot to Lavelle gained 10 yards, while a 5-yard gain around end by "Tony" Elliot and a 15-yard penalty inflicted on Long Beach for holding brought the ball within scoring distance. This was the first chance the Dynamiters had to put over a touchdown during the etnire game. Instead of attempting to carry the ball over, Bud Elliot elected to pass and Evans, Long Beach quarter, intercepted on the 5-yard line.

Drury and Hill took the ball clear down to the center of the field and Drury punted out of bounds on the Glendale one-yard line. Instead of punting back, Howard Elliot took the ball from a position 5 yards behind the goal line and ran clear through the center of the Long Beach team for 76 yards. He was tackled from behind by Hill, who had broken through the Glendale interference and caught up with him. This 76-yard run was the most spectacular play of the entire game, coming when the Beachers were least expecting it, and startling them with an outstanding example of Glendale nerve.

An exchange of punts and a 10-yard gain around end by Walton gave Glendale the ball on the Long Beach 35-yard line, and Elliot elected to try for a place kick in the face of the terrific gale. The wind carried what might have otherwise been a perfect kick wide of the goal posts, and Glendale failed on the second attempt to score. Again Glendale came within sight of the Long Beach goal line, and Elliot tried for a field goal. Again the strong hurricane sweeping from the northwest carried the ball wide of the goal posts. Long Beach had possession of the ball on their own 20-yard line as the half ended.

At the opening of the second half Howard Elliot was not in the game. Ronald West was playing full, with Morrison coming back to do the punting. Several exchanges of punts worked to the advantage of Glendale and short gains by Ryan and Walton and a pass from Walton to Bud Elliot gained considerable ground, but Glendale failed to make yards. Hill of Long Beach made considerable ground, but Drury was forced to punt. At this point Coach Hayhurst put Howard Elliot back in the game, with Walton and West at halves, recalling Ryan, who had been injured. A pass from Elliot to West gained 30 yards, and when the quarter ended Glendale had the ball on the Long Beach 10-yard line. On the fourth down Howard Elliot went around end for a touchdown. His try for a kick was blocked. The score stood Long Beach 13, Glendale 6.

Glendale gained ground after the next kickoff but was forced to punt and Long Beach received on the 1-yard line. On a fake punt formation Drury tried to rush out with the ball from behind the goal line, but was nailed there for a safety, giving Glendale 2 points, making the score—Long Beach 13, Glendale 8. An exchange of punts followed, and Howard Elliot ran back of the Glendale goal line after receiving one of these and was nailed for a safety by Hill. The score stood—Long Beach 15, Glendale 8. In the rest of the last period Glendale tried to score, but was unable to turn the trick, although the Dynamiters had the ball most of the time.

The Dynamiters played a splendid game, and outfought Long Beach at every stage except the first six minutes. Howard Elliot pulled some neat runs, among them his 76-yard dash. His punts and attempts at place kicks were mussed up by the 60-mile gale that swept down from the northwest. Bud Elliot, Ryan, Walton and West all played good in the backfield. Horii and Lavelle played their unusually snappy and fast game, while the rest of the line performed in great fashion when they had recovered from the disastrous effects of the first two scores.

Although he played good football, Drury did not show up as well as was expected. He was instrumental in getting the two touchdowns, but after that caused very little trouble. Captain Hill was the star of the Long Beach aggregation, along with Rich, Jones and Artman.

The crowd that watched the game gave the team hearty support. The Glendale rooting was splendid and the band performed in great fashion. The Glendale section was larger than that of Long Beach. It was so cold that the spectators buttoned their overcoats around their throats and shivered. The attendance undoubtedly would have been larger had it not been for the wind and cold.

The Dynamiters showed themselves Saturday to be a wonderful team, the greatest open-field ground gaining team in the prep ranks for some time.

The line-up:

LONG BEACH		GLENDALE

Officials—Referee, Bryan; umpire, Foley; field judge, Hunt; head linesman, Solomon.

Cuthbert heard that they were going to launch a newly completed liner and break the traditional bottle of champagne over its bows. He immediately declared war on this idea. Among others he cornered Hoffy and announced: "We must fight it."

"Fight what?"

"Christening this vessel with real champagne."

Hoffy declined to become excited.

"I don't see why you object," stated Hoffy calmly. "I thought you wanted all bottled goods smashed."

AUTO REPAIRING
"SO EASY"
Clutch Attachment for Chevrolet Cars
There is nothing so annoying or injurious as the constant grabbing of a clutch which has a tendency to loosen the mechanical parts from the radiator to the rear end and is extremely unpleasant to the ones riding, in the car. After this grabbing has taken place for a short time there is a likelihood of its tearing the whole rear end out, which is an unnecessary expense if you will only realize the clutch of any car needs occasional attention. SO EASY will have a smooth, easy but positive action, thereby saving yourself expensive repair bills and make riding a pleasure as the SO EASY makes a good clutch better.

SCHOOL CHILDREN ARE INCLUDED IN MEMORIAL PLANS

Because Warren Harding's love of children was so well known, the action of the Harding Memorial Association in including the school children in plans for establishing a Harding Memorial will receive the hearty endorsement of the entire country.

The children were among Mr. Harding's most enthusiastic admirers. He had straightforwardness, simplicity, love of animals and the outdoors in common with them. He was a staunch ally of the organizations of youth, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Camp Fire, and half a dozen others. For many of the school children in the United States, President Harding's death was the first contact with national calamity. It made an impression that they will retain through life.

The opportunity to express their affection and have some part in establishing a Harding Mausoleum and Shrine is a privilege properly accorded the 16,000,000 school children of the country.

Teachers have been asked to carefully list signatures of each donor in their classes and forward the lists to Washington, D. C. There the names of the thousands of boys and girls will be bound for permanent placement in the Harding Shrine at Marion.

It is the sort of tribute the simple-hearted Warren Harding would have liked best and treasured most—the children's tribute to the twenty-ninth president of the United States.

Oberammergau Handiwork in N. Y.

[By Associated Press]

OBERAMMERGAU, Dec. 10.—Tourist travel to Oberammergau, the home of the Passion Play, has declined to such an extent in recent years that the villagers are no longer finding a home market for their handiwork. Needing money to keep up the modern improvements now existing in the town, they are sending to New York for sale during the coming winter a consignment of their products.

These include hand-carved altars, crucifies, and religious figures. Johann Georg Lang, one of the village's best-known woodcarvers, has modelled an oak altar over 19 feet high which is one of the most conspicuous bits of art in the collection Anton Lang, the portrayer of the role of Christ in the Passion Play last year and on two previous occasions, has contributed many ceramics A porcelain stove, the tiles of which are decorated with biblical scenes, is conspicuous among his handiwork.

THE JEWELS

Life has splendid jewels three,
Hope and Joy and Memory.

Memory of all the days,
Each in its remembered place.

Merry laughter, voices sweet,
Greetings tender, love complete.

Handclasps warm and pledges true,
Friendships old and ever new.

These for Memory, and here
On Today are duties clear.

Tasks to do and beauties rare
Set before me everywhere.

And Tomorrow there shall be
Dreams come true for you and me.

Dreams like rarest jewels set
In Hope's flashing coronet.

Hope and Joy and Memory,
These are splendid jewels three.

Memory for yesterday,
Joy and gladness for today.

And Hope's flashing jewel gleams
For Tomorrow and its dreams.

POMONA COLLEGE DEPARTMENT OF REGIONAL SERVICE

One year ago the Department of Regional Service was organized at Pomona College, leaving its special line of service to be determined largely by the development and necessities of the future. Gradually four distinct and important lines of service in connection with the college have come under the direction of this department.

The publicity work of the college, not only in the matter of furnishing news to the papers of Southern California but also special articles for religious papers, educational publications and technical journals, is under the supervision of the Regional Service Department.

It is also the work of this department to make the necessary arrangements for conventions and other gatherings which are held at the college. Organizations of various kinds are recognizing more and more the unusual facilities afforded by Pomona for meetings of this character. An illustration of this, is the very successful annual meeting of the Southern California Editorial Association last September.

Calls for speakers for all kinds of organizations are cared for through this department. Speakers are constantly being provided, not only for schools and churches, but also for Chambers of Commerce, Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions Clubs and every type of organization which uses a speaker in connection with its meetings. These calls are not allowed to interfere with the regular work of the college, but with about one hundred members on the faculty and administrative force, it is usually possible to provide a satisfactory speaker in response to any call.

Perhaps the most important phase of the Regional Service work is that of creating and maintaining personal contacts with the constituency of Pomona College throughout Southern California and Arizona.

The Director of this department, Mr. James H. Batten, spends a great deal of his time in the various communities becoming personally acquainted with the people and the needs to which the college can best minister. Having been in early life a business man connected with the newspaper profession and later a chautauqua lecturer of wide experience and a minister of both the Methodist Episcopal and Congregational churches, Mr. Batten is able to enter sympathetically into the needs and interests of every community.

It is the purpose of Pomona College to be more than merely an educational institution fixed in a certain place and contributing only to the intellectual and character development of its student body. It aims through this department to become an intellectual and spiritual "Service Station" for its entire constituency, contributing of its valuable resources to the up-building of all the communities which it is able to touch.

The Department of Regional Service gladly responds to all requests and inquiries that will enhance the value of Pomona College to any section of its territory.

Swiss Set Aside More for Army

[By Associated Press]

BERNE, Dec. 10.—In the Swiss budget for 1924, which shows 256,000,000 francs receipts against 294,000,000 francs expenditure, military appropriations amount to 81,000,000 francs, being 4,000,000 francs in excess of 1923 The greater part of this sum is for the instruction of a number of recruits greatly in excess of the quota of previous years.

AT THE THEATRES

BLANCHE SWEET, ONE OF THE FINEST, IN "ANNA CHRISTIE"

Blanche Sweet in "Anna Christie"

Blanche Sweet is recognized as one of the finest emotional actresses in silent drama. It was she who was chosen for the coveted role of Anna in Thomas H. Ince's "Anna Christie," a First National release, which comes to the T. D. & L. theatre again tomorrow and for the last times.

Miss Sweet was well known on the legitimate stage as a dancer with Gertrude Hoffman before she began her screen career at the old Biograph studio.

WALLACE BEERY HAS BEEN A KING SEVERAL TIMES

Wallace Beery, who plays the role of Philip IV in Pola Negri's new Paramount picture, "The Spanish Dancer," which will be shown at the Gateway theatre again today, has been twice king of England, once king of a topsy-turvy musical comedy land, and in this picture he presides over one of the most powerful courts of medieval Europe.

In making up for the role of Philip IV., Beery used Valasquez for his model and faithfully followed the painting of the Spanish monarch made by that famous artist. The costumes worn are also carefully designed from those shown in the Valasquez paintings.

In "The Spanish Dancer," Pola Negri appears as the fiery girl whose beauty and brilliant personality carry her from a road-side camp into the heart of Philip's court. Antonio Moreno is the featured player. Heading the supporting cast are Wallace Beery, Kathlyn Williams, Gareth Hughes and Adolphe Menjou.

FORTUNE SPENT ON SETS, JACKIE COOGAN'S PLAY

JACKIE COOGAN in "LONG LIVE THE KING"

Most people are of the opinion that the immense sums of money which are constantly reported as spent on some film production go to the actors in huge salaries. Of the sum of $600,000 which is said to have been spent on Jackie Coogan's Metro picture, "Long Live the King," now playing at the Glendale theatre, $400,000 was spent on sets alone, tremendous sets of great beauty which form only a small part of the attraction of this remarkable picture.
